COUNTY SUGAR REGISTRATION HITS 71,917

Enrollment For Rationing Here Far Ahead of State, Buckeye Reports Show.

BAILEY ISSUES PRAISE

Compliments Teachers for Co-operation; Those Failing to Register Criticized.

Richland county residents did themselves proud—roiling up an impressive record far better than the average throughout the state, in the consumer sugar registration which ended last night, a final tabulation showed today.

In this county, which according to the latest census has a population of 73,853, the registration totalled 71,917, James Bailey, county rationing co-ordinator, announced today.

While the number here who failed to register was relatively insignificent, the same was not true generally in the state. Harry J. Patterson, Ohio sugar rationing administrator, revealed at Columbus that nearly 2,000,000 persons in the state had failed to register. Some communities continued registration today.

Patterson estimated that 5,300,000 of the state's 7,500,000 residents had received sugar books, and termed "unpatriotit" the failure of others to "declare their sugar and place themselves under rationing with their neighbors."

Patterson asserted that registration figures indicated more residents had stocks of sugar on hand than had been supposed previously.

Consumers who did not obtain coupons this week may get them from local rationing boards beginning May 21. Rationing for consumers, who are limited to one half pound a week, began Tuesday. Patterson announced that federal inspectors are checking throughout the state on reported violations, but declined to name areas under scrutiny.

While Patterson was critical of the failure of many Ohioans to register, Bailey had nothing but praise for the job done in Richland county, particularly by the teachers who served as registrars.

"I appreciate so much the fine

Cleveland's War Production Hit by Fifth Stoppage

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The fifth work stoppage in Cleveland's war production industry within a month today halted production at the John Harsch Bronze and Foundry company in Lakewood as the AFL-Molders' union called out 500 workers in a demand for a 12½-cents-an-hour wage increase.

While Mayor Amos I. Kaufman attempted to bring the company and union together, the National War Production board announced it would intervene in the dispute.

The union is seeking a new contract calling for the wage increase, readjustment of vacations with pay and other concessions, but George Haas, business representative of the union, said the strike was "unauthorized." He said he had appealed to international union officers in Cincinnati to order the strikers back to work.

Haas said that H. B. Harsch, company treasurer, met the union's demands with the statement that the workers could contine on the terms of the old contract "or go home." Harsch said skilled workers were being paid $1.27½ an hour.

The company is engaged 100 per cent in war production.

MEANEST THIEF

Burglar Steals 6 Sugar Ration Books From Boston Home.

BOSTON —(INS)— The first sugar rationing book thief was sought today by police. Mrs. Herbert Kinsman, of Hyde park, reported the theft of six rationing books from her home. Officials said persons who have their books stolen or lost will be unable to obtain new ones until May 21.

Drastic New "Soak Up" Tax Looms

Administration Studies Sales Levy, Double Social Security.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—New and drastic proposals to keep down the cost of living emerged today on the heels of a sudden decision by the treasury to ask congress for a cut in personal income tax exemptions.

High administration sources said that since one of the purposes of the anti-inflation program was to "soak up" excess purchasing power that might be used to bid up prices, consideration had been given to such ideas as a federal retail sales tax (in addition to all other tax increases), doubled social security taxes, and compulsory purchases of war bonds.

These steps were advocated privately by some influential administration leaders before President Roosevelt sent his "cost of living" message to congress last week. The president did not mention these items, but promised further legislative recommendations, "if necessary."

That promise started to take shape yesterday when Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, reversing a previous stand, asked the house way and means committee to cut personal exemptions. He suggested that the income exemption for a single person be cut from $750 to $600, for a family head from $1,500 to $1,200, for a dependent from $400 to $300. The secretary estimated that this plan would add $1,100,000,000 to the $7,600,000,000 annual revenue expected from other recent tax proposals.

Morgenthau's new proposal took committeemen completely by surprise and few were willing to predict even privately what the result would be.

One sales tax proponent said, "this assures a sales tax" because congress would not dip so deeply into individual income. Another committeeman said the recommendations, if adopted, would kill sentiment for a sales tax.

Officially the administration is opposed to sales tax. But unofficially, a large group of high officials believed that under war conditions there should be such a tax, disguised as a "war consumption tax." They believe it could raise $2,500,000,000.

Perhaps the most controversial of the other unadopted proposals would ask congress to require everyone to put at least a fixed portion of his income—probably 15 or 20 per cent—into either taxes or bonds.

ONE DAY LEFT

China Relief Workers Need $2,400 to Reach Quota.

A renewed appeal for contributions, regardless of amount, was issued today by the United China Relief committee of Richland county as the group's campaign for $4,000 reached the 40 per cent mark.

Allen Bond, chairman, pointed out that contributions to date, only one day before the scheduled close of the drive, totalled $1,600.

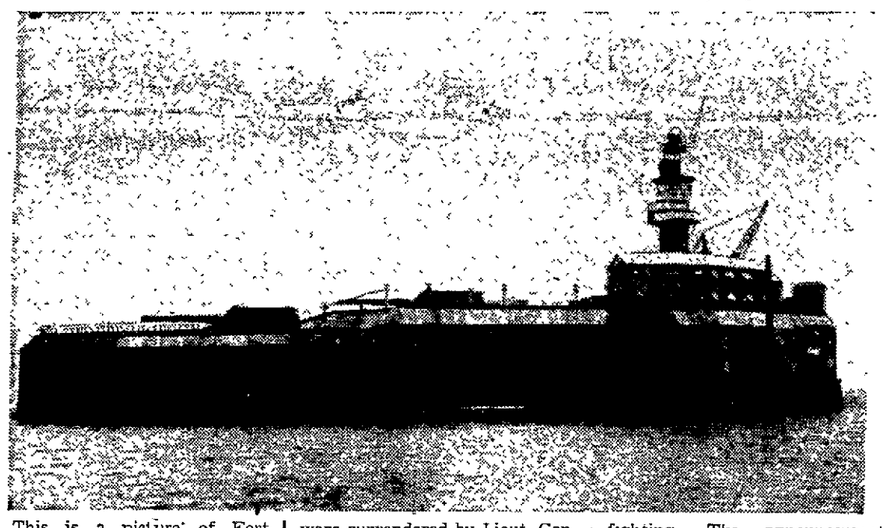
"The committee plans to extend the campaign into next week," he said today. "We are hopeful that there will be a good return today and tomorrow in our mail solicitation for funds.

Contributions are being received at the R. E. Moorhead showrooms, 37 Park avenue west.

Madagascar Capital Before British Seizure

This is how Tananarivo, capital of Madagascar, looked before British forces invaded the island Tuesday and after a day's battle in the environs of Diego Suarez naval base and Antsirane obtained the surrender of French forces. Taken from the air, this photo shows a soccer game in progress at the outskirts of the city.

Manila Bay Fort Surrenders to Japs



This is a picture of Fort Drum, an unsinkable battleship at the entrance to Manila bay. This together with Corregidor and Forts Hughes and Frank were surrendered by Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, commander of the American forces in the Philippines, to the Japs after five months of valiant fighting. The announcement was made by a spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The collapse of the bay forts will enable the Nipponese to use the port facilities at Manila.

O. S. R. Fugitive Captured In Stolen Car at Loudonville

The capture in Loudonville early today of a Mansfield reformatory inmate who fled yesterday in a car stolen in East Mansfield brought a warning from Sheriff Frank E. Robinson against allowing unlocked cars to stand out with the switch keys in them.

Mansfield motorists should be especially careful about locking their cars at night, for an unlocked car with the key in it is an invitation for an escaped reformatory inmate to take it and leave the county," the sheriff said.

Captured in Loudonville about 2:30 a. m. today by Patrolman Rhinehold Schnittke of Loudonville, Paul Kasnepeich, 21 was returned to the reformatory by guards.

The youth fled last night in a car owned by H. K. Davies, Bahl avenue, East Mansfield, the sheriff said. Mrs. Davies told officers she had left the car in front of their home and neglected to remove the keys.

Kasnepeich, serving a one-to-20-year term for auto theft in Mahoning county, was apprehended when a Loudonville filling station operator recognized the car as matching the description he had heard broadcast by Mansfield police. The filling station attendant called Patrolman Schnittke after thinking of an excuse to hold the car at the station. The automobile was returned to the owner by Sheriff Robinson and Deputy C. C. Gongwer.

OCD HARD HIT

Resignations Extend From Typists to Officials.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Resignations from the office of civilian defense have reached such proportions that division heads have been ordered to delay transfers of personnel to other agencies, it was learned today.

The defections from the agency, recently under public fire, were said to extend from high ranking officials down to minor clerks, typists and stenographers. Many were reported to be shopping around among other war agencies for new and better posts.

The most resignations were said to be in the civilian participation division, formerly headed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The section is now headed by Jonathan Daniels, son of the publisher and former secretary of the Navy.

Get $185 at Butler High; Watches, Purse Stolen as Man, Wife Sleep.

Burglars obtained loot valued at more than $400 last night at the Butler school and the home of C. W. Laubscher, Mansfield jeweler, on Park avenue west road where they took jewelry and money from the room where Mr. and Mrs. Laubscher were sleeping without awakening the couple.

Entering the Butler school building by breaking a window in the cafeteria, the burglars got at least $185 and two typewriters in the administration office, Supt. Willard S. Weekley said. The office was ransacked and records and papers strewn over the floor.

The money was in a safe which was pried open. About $60 hidden elsewhere in the room was

BOMBER MISSING

Fortress With 10 Aboard Fails To Return From Training Flight.

TAMPA, Fla. —(U.P.)— A flying fortress carrying 10 men has been missing on a routine training flight from MacDill Field since midnight Wednesday, the Army announced today.

The big bomber carried only enough gasoline to keep it in the air until 3 a. m. (EWT) Thursday but a wide and continuous search has failed to disclose any trace of it, an air corps spokesman said.

LONDON FEELS LIBYA SECURE FOR SUMMER

Occupation of Madagascar Strengthens Position of Empire in Africa.

MALTA WEATHERS RAIDS

Island Remains Effective Operations Base After 2,000 Air Attacks.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The British position in Libya is secured for the summer by the occupation of Madagascar's Diego Suarez naval base and Malta's successful defense against Axis air attacks which evidently were intended to open the way for invasion, a well informed military observer said today.

Capitulation of French forces in the Diego Suarez bay area reduced the Japanese threat to Indian ocean supply lines. Dwindling of German-Italian mass air raids within the last two weeks has left the rock-based naval and air forces of Malta still preying upon Axis convoys in the Mediterranean.

General Sir William George Sheddon Dobbie, 62-year-old world war veteran who had weathered more than 2,000 air attacks upon Malta, has been succeeded as governor and commander in chief by Viscount Gort, 55-year-old former chief of the imperial staff, it was announced last night.

Lord Gort, 55, is known to the British as "Tiger Gort." He led the British expeditionary force in France at the beginning of the war. Since April, 1941, he had been in command at Gibraltar.

General Dobbie is expected to return to England to rest.

The military observer said Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was not strong enough to open large scale operations against the British armies in North Africa and that constant submarine attacks upon German-Italian convoys made the Axis supply situation precarious.

He said heavy air attacks against Malta had slackened since April 25 and added:

"There is no doubt in my mind that these were intended as a preliminary to a sea-borne invasion of Malta. The RAF and anti-aircraft batteries defeated the Luftwaffe. Invasion plans were upset.

"Malta is still operating and Axis supplies are still being sunk. Unless Rommel disregards all rules and attacks a superior force under bad conditions there will be no campaign this summer."

SETS LIMIT

Henderson Says Motorists to Get 2 Gallons a Week.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Price Administrator Leon Henderson said today that motorists on the eastern seabord, using their cars for non-essential driving, could expect no more than three gallons of gasoline a week under a government rationing system.

"I am going to say two, with no prospects of getting it above three," Henderson told newsmen just before going before the house interstate commerce committee to testify on the gasoline and tire situation.

He said that this would apply to approximately one-third of "the cars not used for work purposes."

He said that he had been over the situation earlier this morning with the petroleum coordinator's office and added: "I don't see how I can avoid giving the basic rationing per unit today."

"With a 50 per cent cut (in the supply of gasoline) it is going to fall between two and three gallons a week, probably nearer two," Henderson continued. "We're still working to see if it can be increased, but I see no prospect of getting it above three."

LIQUOR PRICES CUT

COLUMBUS—(AP)—State liquor stores, beginning Monday, will reduce prices from one to 46 cents on bottled liquor as a result of the imposition of price ceilings, the department of liquor control reported.

U. S. Fleet In Thick of Huge Naval Struggle

Fate of Australia Hinges on Result of Engagement In Coral Sea; Enemy Claims Two Aircraft Carriers Sunk; Fight Still Raging South of Islands.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia — The greatest naval battle of the war is in progress in the seas directly east of Australia, with the immediate fate of this continent depending on the undetermined result.

Allied headquarters announced that already 10 Japanese ships had been sunk and six badly damaged, as follows:

Sunk: An aircraft carrier, a heavy cruiser, a light cruiser, two destroyers, four gunboats and a supply vessel;

Heavily damaged: A heavy cruiser, a light cruiser, a 9,000-ton seaplane tender, a cargo vessel, and a transport.

Allied bombers were credited with destruction of still another Japanese transport in a raid on the Louisiade Islands northeast of Australia.

The Japanese countered with a claim that an American battleship of the California class and two aircraft carriers of the Saratoga and Yorktown classes had been sunk, a British battleship and an Australian cruiser heavily damaged.

Neither side reported losses of its own, but the British admiralty promptly denied the Japanese claim that the battleship Warspite or any other British battleship had been sunk or damaged in the battle.

(The Japanese located the battle in the Coral Sea southeast of New Guinea, saying it began Wednesday, when a powerful "Anglo-American combined fleet" was "discovered and caught.")

Allied headquarters did not specifically name the location but successive communiques indicated it was ranging over a wide expanse of ocean south of the Solomon Islands and extending into the Coral Sea.

If actually in the Coral sea, the battle indicates the Japanese have broken through the outer screen

Mansfielders Aboard Vessels

A number of men who entered the navy from the Mansfield area are known to be stationed aboard the U. S. aircraft carriers Yorktown and Saratoga, which the Japanese today claimed to have sunk in the course of a Pacific naval battle.

William G. Cox, in charge of the naval recruiting office in the Mansfield postoffice, said that a roster of names is not available, but that a number of Mansfield area men are on the Yorktown and others are probably aboard the Saratoga.

U. S. Fliers Pour Bombs on Rangoon for Fifth Time

(By International News Service)

NEW DELHI — United States air corps fliers bombed the Japanese-held port of Rangoon, Burma, for the fifth time early today.

The dock area of Rangoon, through which the Japanese have been supplying their Burma invasion forces, have suffered extensive damage from attacks by American forces under command of Maj. Gen. Lewis Brereton.

The U. S. fliers, operating heavy bombers from their base in India, started many new fires.

The raid was made extremely difficult because of thunderstorms, a communique from the United States headquarters said, but the docks and other target areas of Rangoon were successfully attacked.

Japanese fighter craft failed to attempt an interception and all the United States planes returned safely to their base.

A communique of the Chinese high command, issued in Chungking, said that Chinese defense forces in Yunnan province have beaten off repeated Japanese attacks in the vicinity of Chefang, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy.

Fierce fighting was said to be continuing around Chefang, 30 miles above the Burmese border with the Japanese launching persistent attacks in an ef-

Soldier Son In London Will Talk to Mansfield Mother

"Nobody could ever receive a finer Mother's Day present."

This was Mrs. Fannie Copeland's heartfelt comment today when she received word that she will hear the voice of her son, First Lieutenant Jack M. Copeland, in a radio program from the American Eagle club in London tomorrow night.

Mrs. Copeland, who resides at 572 South Main street and is employed at Brook's Quality Apparel, was notified by the New York office of the British Broadcasting corporation that her son would broadcast on the Saturday evening program.

She was thrilled by the news. "This will be the first time I will have heard his voice since last August," she said. "I saw him then for a little while in Wadsworth when he was on his way east to embark for Iceland."

The American Eagle club program will be broadcast from London from 8 to 8:30 p. m. The program will be heard in the United States over many stations of the Mutual Broadcasting System.

These programs originate at the club house of the American Eagle Squadrons in London, and are designed to give the members of the squadrons an opor-

10 Jap Ships Sunk, 6 Damaged In Greatest Sea Battle of War

U. S. Fleet Strike Heavy Blow In Fight Likely to Decide Fate of Australia; Enemy Says Aircraft Carriers Hit.

of islands which shield the Australian continent on the east at a distance of about 1,000 miles.

The critical importance of the gigantic conflict was apparent—perhaps rivalling that of the disputed World war battle of Jutland, which so far stands as the heaviest naval engagement of all time.

Prime Minister John Curtin gravely told the Australian house of representatives that the present action was of crucial significance to the whole conduct of the war in this theater.

"Nobody can tell what the result of the engagement will be at this moment," Curtin declared.

It was the first test of strength between the Allied and Japanese fleets since the battle of Java early last March, and first reports indicated it would far exceed that bloody struggle both in scope and aftermath.

All Australia waited eagerly for news to be flashed on the outcome of the engagement upon which it was generally believed her fate depended.

While the exact locale of the battle was not specified in official announcements, succeeding communiques indicated it was developing into a running fight south of the Solomon islands and extending into the Coral sea washing the shores of northeastern Australia.

(The Tokyo radio announced the Japanese fleet had scored "brilliant achievements in the Coral sea against a combined Anglo-American fleet" and claimed two United States aircraft carriers of the Yorktown and Saratoga types had been sunk. It also said a British warship of the Warspite class was sunk.)

It was not immediately clear, however, whether the battle betokened a Japanese attempt to cut Australia's vital supply lines by smashing the Allied fleet, or whether it was the prelude to a new invasion thrust—aimed at Port Moresby, strategic Allied outpost in southern New Guinea, or perhaps the east Australian coast.

The first official intimation that the Japanese were on the move along the sea approaches to Australia was given in a communique yesterday which reported that Allied bombers had sunk a Japanese transport in the Louisiade archipelago off the southeast tip of New Guinea.

The Louisiade islands are on the route which the Japanese would have to follow in launching a seaborne assault on either Port Moresby or Australia from their bases in northeastern New Guinea and New Britain—less than a day's journey to the north by ship.

A convoy could steam from the Louisiades to Port Moresby in another day or less.

Australian leaders repeatedly have warned of the imminent danger of invasion, despite growing Allied air strength and continued bombing attacks on Japanese bases.

The press also has emphasized the great importance to the Allies of holding Port Moresby—which is situated less than 300 miles northeast of Cape York, Australia.

Port Moresby itself was again attacked yesterday by eight Japanese Zero fighters, one of which was shot down, Allied headquarters said. Another Japanese fighter was reported downed by Allied reconnaissance planes over Lae in northeastern New Guinea.

Box Score In Big Sea Battle

(By United Press)

The greatest sea battle of the war, which started Monday and still was in progress today northeast of Australia, had resulted so far in these reports and claims of naval losses:

JAPANESE SHIPS SUNK (10)

One aircraft carrier.
One heavy cruiser, probably of 10,000 tons.
One light cruiser, probably 6,000 tons.
Two destroyers.
Four gunboats.
One supply vessel.

JAPANESE SHIPS DAMAGED (6)

One aircraft carrier, probably a total loss.
One heavy cruiser.
One light cruiser.
One seaplane tender of 9,000 tons.
One supply ship.
One transport.

Allied losses have not yet been reported except for three airplanes announced in Thursday's communique.

A Japanese communique broadcast by Tokyo claimed that the United States aircraft carriers Yorktown and Saratoga and a battleship of the 32,600-ton California type had been sunk and that the British had lost a battleship of the 37,000-ton Warspite type. London immediately denied that any British battleship had been damaged or sunk in the engagement.

The Tokyo broadcast also claimed that a British or Australian heavy cruiser had been damaged.

Soviets Concentrate Thrusts In Arctic Near Murmansk

MOSCOW—(INS)—Soviet armies continued to hold the advantage in all key sectors of the long eastern European front today, but concentrated their heaviest thrusts below Leningrad and in the Arctic region near Murmansk, according to reports reaching Moscow.

In one sector of the northwest front, the Red army occupied an inhabited locality and inflicted "heavy losses" on the enemy, an official communique reported, while dispatches from the Arctic told how the Russians had driven a wedge into Finnish-German lines extending from eight to 11 miles.

By consolidating their new gains in the Arctic, the Soviets relieved some of the enemy pressure directed at Murmansk, the vital port where supplies are arriving almost daily from the United States and Great Britain.

(The London Daily Mirror said the Berlin radio had admitted the latest Soviet advance in the Murmansk sector.)

Unofficial estimates in Moscow placed German losses in the Lake Ilmen vicinity below Leningrad at 30,000, killed and wounded, during the last month. All German attempts to regain the initiative and resume their march toward Leningrad in this sector have been repulsed, it was said.

RAF Continues to Pummel Germany; London Has Alert

LONDON—(INS)—Royal Air Force planes continued their assaults against Germany today while London experienced its first air alert in more than six months.

The alert was sounded in only one area of the British capital but no planes were heard and anti-aircraft batteries remained silent.

(The Berlin radio broadcast a DNB, German news agency, dispatch claiming that when the RAF planes appeared over the Reich heavy anti-aircraft fire prevented them from dropping any bombs. Four British planes were brought down, it was asserted.)

Luftwaffe planes soared over an English south coast town during the evening and defense units brought down two of the enemy bombers. Bombs dropped by the Germans caused only slight damage and no casualties.

Attacks against occupied areas on the continent were continued during the evening by the RAF. A double sweep was made by Boston (Douglas) bombers, escorted by fighters, against Ostend and Zeebrugge.

The third American Eagle squadron, recently based at Britain's leading fighter station, participated in its first operational flight when it joined in the attack on Ostend.

The enemy sent up no fighter opposition, causing one of the Americans, a tall Texan, to drawl in what he considered his best English accent:

"The little blighters wouldn't play."

London Reports Enemy Convoy Caught on Way to Rabaul

LONDON—(AP)—London naval observers declared today that from the information at hand the battle off Australia apparently resulted from interception of a Japanese invasion convoy bound from Rabaul or the Solomon islands south to the New Hebrides or New Caledonia.

One source expressed belief that the present battle represented a final judgment and much deliberation on both sides.

"The Japanese recently have been building up naval strength at Rabaul," he said. "There is no doubt that the Allied command, with daily reconnaissance reports at hand, anticipated the Japanese strength and move.

"It can be assumed that, demonstrating a first-class offensive spirit, the Americans have tried to intercept and destroy a Japanese invasion convoy.

"The Japanese intention appears to be to invest the New Hebrides or New Caledonia or both to encircle Australia farther on the east and cut American supply lines.

"The action that started Monday probably began with aircraft from American carriers operating southwest of the Solomons.

"It appears that the attacks did not stop the Japanese, who, with a powerful fleet, including battleships as well as aircraft carriers and cruisers, were able to push on toward their objective.

"The bulk of the two fleets then joined battle."

Another source said, "This sort of game is indicative of the fiercest type of naval action," and all said it was evident that it was the biggest sea battle since Jutland 26 years ago.

Nation Waits Word on 11,500 Trapped In Corregidor Fall

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Initial reports of successes of the United Nations forces now battling a Japanese fleet off the Solomon islands today softened somewhat the blow of the loss of Corregidor.

But there still was no official word about the fate of the estimated 11,500 persons on Corregidor and the other Manila bay forts, now surrendered to the Japanese.

The war department lacked official confirmation of Japanese claims, broadcast from a Manila radio station, that Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright agreed to the surrender of scattered guerrilla forces as a condition to the cessation of attacks on Corregidor. The American-Filipino fighters have been carrying out hit-and-run attacks at many points in the Philippine Islands.

Wainwright, according to the Japanese, accepted the terms to avoid unnecessary sacrifice of his men. The Japanese claims were made public in a war department communique, which emphasized that no official information has been received here.

overlooked. Supt. Weekley said the funds belonged to the junior and senior classes and the school band and orchestra.

Laubscher said his home was burglarized sometime between 12:15 a. m., and 1:30 a. m., his son finding articles scattered over the kitchen floor and the back door open when he arrived home at 1:30 a. m.

The burglars took two watches and Mrs. Laubscher's purse from the dresser in the bedroom and Laubscher's trousers from a chair beside the bed while the Laubschers slept. The trousers and purse were searched in the kitchen and left on the floor. Included in the loot was a ring and $5 in money in addition to the two watches. The loss was estimated at $245.

Laubscher told Sheriff Frank E. Robinson the burglars climbed through a kitchen window, stepped on the sink and then to the floor without knocking off a dish and a thin glass tumbler at either end of the sink.

The sheriff and his deputies who were investigating the cases today said they did not believe the two burglaries involved the same men or boys since they were far apart.

ARREST SUSPECT

Highway Patrolmen Get Third Man Charges With Robbery.

State highway patrolmen, aided by Cleveland police, rounded up today the third member of a Cleveland trio charged with the $300 hold-up of the Bank restaurant in Loudonville on April 27, and delivered him to Loudonville for arraignment.

Corp. C. F. Strayer of the Mansfield patrol sub-station said that Cleveland police arrested Mike Pietro, 22, of Cleveland.

Strayer said that Pietro had signed a confession that he had participated in the robbery of Lewis Stone, proprietor of the restaurant, his wife and two customers, at the point of a gun and that Pietro was scheduled to be arraigned today.

A check of automobile license numbers by state partlomen resulted in the arrest of Dino C. Valerian, 22, and William Milite, 20, both of Cleveland.

QUIT SERVICE FOR FACTORIES

Workers At Employment Office Take Jobs In War Plants.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Ten years ago no one would have dared believe it, much less announce publicly that it could happen here.

But the fact is, says the United States employment office, that workers spend a lot of their time "shopping around" for higher paid jobs, and now employes of the employment service are quitting government positions to take factory jobs.

During the early 1940's Cleveland was over-built and thousands were unemployed. Now the housing situation is critical and war plants are competing for men by offering eigher wages.

NAMES CHAIRMEN

ASHLAND — County Commissioner H. F. Wallett, chairman of county organization for the sale of War Bonds and Stamps, has named the following township chairmen for the northern part of the county:

ENTIRE SCHOOL FACULTY QUITS

Controversy Rages at Yellow Springs Over Pupil Dismissal.

YELLOW SPRINGS —(UP)— Resignation of the entire faculty —with the exception of the principal—forced closing of Bryan high school here today, as the latest development in a controversy over dismissal of a student.

The eight teachers, resigning en masse in a letter to the school board, said they would not return until the township school board rescinded a motion to reinstate the boy, made "public apology" for what they called "humiliating and unprofessional insults" and has inserted in its minutes a statement of confidence in the staff and a pledge of cooperation.

Students of the school reported for classes as usual this morning, but found no teachers to instruct them. S. O. Liming, the principal, dismissed school for the day.

cooperation of school superintendents, principals and teachers in making this registration a 100 per cent success," he said. "They did this job entirely without compensation, of course, and they are deserving of high praise for their cooperation and spirit of loyalty to this cause for which we are all fighting. It is this spirit which helps the boys who are fighting to save our country."

Of the 71,917 who registered in the country, 66,260 were given ration books. The final day registration in the county was 15,697 and the books issued totaled 14,587.

The Thursday registration in Mansfield was 10,124, and 9,415 books were issued in the city on that day. The four-day total registration in Mansfield was 40,739, and 37,845 books were issued. In Shelby the last-day and four-day registration figures were 1,339 and 8,381 respectively, and the number of books issued 1,251 and 7,534.

CHICAGO HAS SUGAR GHOSTS

3,600,000 Sign Up for Cards, City Population Only 3,396,000.

CHICAGO—(INS)—Unless somebody's round figures are too round, Chicago may have thousands of sugar-loving ghosts to account for.

Registration officials reported today that approximately 3,600,000 persons signed up for sugar rationing here in the four-day registration ended yesterday.

The 1940 census placed the Windy City's population at 3,396,000.

Dominican Ship Sent to Bottom, 30 Crew Members are Missing.

TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic —(UP)— It was announced officially today that a German submarine had sunk the Dominican steamer San Rafael and that 30 crew members were missing.

Lloyd's register lists the San Rafael as a 1,973-ton vessel built at Bremerhaven, Germany, in 1905.

WIN CITIZENSHIP

ASHLAND — Three Ashland county persons were granted United States citizenship Thursday by Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson.

They were: Auntun Yanusic of Ashland, native of Yugoslavia; Joan Harvath of Ashland, native of Czechoslovakia, and John Caldwell Givan of Sullivan, native of Scotland.

As the new citiezns received their final citizenship papers they were presented with an American flag by Miss Grace Franz representing the Women's Relief corps.

FETES CLUB

CRESTLINE — Mrs. Robert Grummel welcomed members of the Sigma Tau club and following guests, Mrs. Robert Harris of Mansfield, Mrs. J. H. Steiert of Galion, Mrs. Jack Hauck and Mrs. Edmund Wagner of Crestline to her home southeast of town recently.

Three tables were filled for bridge games with score awards won by Mrs. Robert Metz, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. LeRoy Bletz and Mrs. Steiert.

fort to advance northeastward along the Burma road.

A Chinese military spokesman described the present Japanese position in Yunnan as "vulnerable," and indicated that the Chinese would undertake a counter-offensive as soon as a strategic opportunity presented itself.

Meanwhile the Japanese in north-central Burma were reported pounding Myitkyita, communications center through which the Chinese still maintain contact with India.

Forces under command of American Lieut. Gen. Joseph Stilwell were said to have established a new front along an undisclosed area running north of Mandalay and Lashio.

(The Japanese claimed in a Tokyo communique that Nipponese forces had occupied the Irrawaddy river port of Bhamo, 80 miles south of Myitkyita.)

(The News Chronicle in London reported a dispatch from Calcutta in which it was said that a Japanese spearhead had taken up positions in western Burma athwart the route of British forces withdrawing to the northwest. The dispatch said that if Gen. Harold Alexander's withdrawal through the Chindwin valley is to be a success it must now smash the road block established by the Japanese.)

WIDOW, 75, DIES

Mrs. Callie Ritter Succumbs After Long Illness.

Mrs Callie Ritter, 75, widow of John Ritter, died this morning at her home, 151 West Third street, after several months' illness.

Mrs. Ritter was born in Mansfield on July 27, 1866, the daughter of Martin and Mary Troll, pioneer Mansfield residents. She resided here all of her life.

Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Emma Urich of Mansfield; a sister, Mrs. Mary Fox of Cleveland; and a brother, Martin Troll of Seattle, Wash.

Funeral services will be held from the Wappner funeral home Monday at 10 a. m. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

in excess of their expectations, the Germans may try to push through Turkey toward the oil of Iraq and Iran and a juncture with the Japanese "somewhere out there," the observer commented.

He said a "slightly unbalanced picture of Rommel's ability is current in Britain.

"It's about time someone tells the world the Germans pull their pants on one leg at a time like everyone else and the Italians aren't funny-page soldiers.

"How do the Germans and Italians get on? Like the Giants and the Dodgers."

FOREMEN HEAR CAPT. NICHOSON

Mansfield-Shelby Club Will Elect New Officers at Meeting Monday.

Capt. A. A. Nichoson, New York, widely known business man and lecturer, will speak before the Mansfield-Shelby Foremen's club at its annual meeting Monday night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Veteran of the first World war and now in charge of public and industrial relations for the Texas company, Capt. Nichoson has appeared before business and industrial groups throughout the nation. His subject Monday night will be: "Production for Victory."

The foremen's organization will eelct officers at the meeting, the club's final session of the winter season. P. M. Wooden of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company has headed the organization for the past year.

The program Monday night will be in charge of club members from the Tappan Stove company and the Humphryes Manufacturing company. The session will open with a dinner at 6:30 p. m. in the hotel ballroom.

Songwriters Call It Quits on the Boogie Woogie

HOLLYWOOD— (INS)—Don Raye and Gene DePaul, brainstormers of such saccharine ditties as "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy," "Beat Me Daddy Eight to a Bar," and "Scrub Me Mamma with a Boogie Beat," today decided to call it quits.

"We're swearing off the boogie woogie," snorted Raye. "Sure, we're successes, but this jive stuff has ruined our reputations. Music publishers laugh at us when we try to write anything serious."

Under contract to Universal studios for exactly one year this month, the ivory-ticklers have pounded out 71 tunes. Nearly 50 of them were boogie beauties.

"Enough's enough," declared DePaul. "We're getting stale. From now on it's the old sweet-and-lovely for us!"

They're concocting the musical score for Abbot and Costello's new flicker "Pardon my Sarong."

"Seven numbers we're concocting," said Raye. "And not a one is boogie."

$300,000 Drawn By Subdivisions In Tax Advances

Pressed for operating funds and unable to wait for the regular distribution of tax money, Richland county subdivisions have drawn more than $300,000 in advances against the first-half real estate tax collection, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe's report showed today.

The largest amount went to the Mansfield schools which drew $180,000 to meet operating expenses.

The city of Mansfield collected $85,000 from the county and Shelby schools were allocated $28,000. Eight other townships and schools also drew advance payments.

The county had an operating balance of $34,849 on May 1, according to the report. That was a decrease of $11,000 during the past month. General fund expenditures in April amounted to $28,154 while the county received $17,645 during the month.

CONDUCT EXAMS

GALION—Five members of the Galion police department have signed to take the competitive promotional examinations for chief of police, it was announced Thursday.

Draws Parallel Between Human And Ape Wars

ITHACA, N. Y.—(INS)—A parallel between human wars and the territorial wars of monkey and ape colonies was drawn here recently before a Cornell university audience by Dr. C. R. Carpenter, associate professor of psychology at Pennsylvania State college.

Dr. Carpenter pointed out that the simplicity of social adjustments on the non-human level with those on the human level, and illustrated his lecture by showing films of monkeys and apes.

Arbitration often precedes or substitutes for actual fighting in those territorial wars, Dr. Carpenter observed. "A group of howler monkeys, for example, which are populous in Central and South America, will establish itself on a particular territory where food, water, and protection can be found, and will defend that territory as long as four years," he said.

To DEFENSE WORKERS Laid Off
While Plants Are "Changing Over" To War Production
We have a special loan plan through which we advance you cash while you are laid off, to enable you to tide over the period of no earnings. Then when you go back to work you can repay what you then owe in regular monthly installments which you can afford. Defense workers who NOW have jobs, even a new one, but who are short of immediate cash for old bills or to get things you or your family need, can apply for a regular loan from $10 to $450 or more. We have a loan plan to suit the circumstances of any creditworthy person, man or woman, single or married. If you need money, see us at once.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, MAY 8, 1942.

It isn't "the world" that's wrong, but only the people in it.

"The wind that blows between the worlds" is carrying off a lot of rubbish now.

People of orderly habits are annoyed because the war's getting behind schedule; but others are willing to let Old Man Mars stall as long as he likes.

Equality and Peace

IT IS A STRANGE WORLD that seems to be developing now, in the midst of all the shooting and killing and starving. Even while it may look as if our civilization could end in a blood-bath from which it would take ages to recover, there is hope among men and nations of good will.

The violent and predatory governments, it is felt, do not really represent even their own people, but only ruthless individuals and groups, outlaws in a world that seeks peaceful co-operation. If they can be kept from conquering the earth—and it is now felt that they can be—this bloody era might bring a "Roman Peace" like that which came after Julius Caesar, ushering in the Augustan Age throughout the known world.

Such an age might last much longer this time, and might prevail throughout the earth. Men almost everywhere seem eager for peace and order. Science, invention and transportation have almost prepared the world for a new age.

The prospects are brighter, in the long view, because at last men begin to see an equality not only of nations but of races. The material equipment is ready. All that remains is to recognize and act on the principle that "God hath made of one blood all the nations of the earth." If mankind can rise to that, the millennium may come.

Education Simplified

THE "layman," alias average man, hardly knows what to think about learning and the road to it, after reading remarks made by Dr. Stringfellow Barr, president of St. John's College at Annapolis. He is quoted as saying that colleges ought to throw away their textbooks, and he explains as follows:

"Textbook writing has developed into a first-class racket. It has become practically the only way professors can make a living without stealing. If we don't chuck textbooks out soon, we're headed for educational catastrophe."

It sounds somewhat like a Shakespearean recipe for improving the world: "First we'll hang all the lawyers." But just as there would have to be some substitution for legal talent, so Dr. Barr offers an alternative to college textbooks. Apparently he would use only masterpieces of literature that provide real knowledge and wisdom informally. Instead of texts, he says, study "the best books you can get," books that crystalize and convey truth. "The best way to use your mind is to use it in the operation of understanding a great mind."

That sounds fine, and doubtless great and wise men have been produced by such a process. But for general use, what would the wisdom-seeking student do when examination day came around? How would he ever get his degree? And how get a job without it?

Isn't the organization of knowledge as important as knowledge itself?

What People Read

ALL NEWSPAPERS are faced with space shortage. There is still enough newsprint for the daily papers, and there will be enough. But the amount available is limited and every editor must decide what he will cut out of his paper. Editor and Publisher magazine asked some newspaper men what they were doing about it.

"What sells newspapers?" asks Harry B. Baker, Chicago Sun, answering thus:

"News, of course. But what else? The average person wants to retain, as long as he can, those things in life that have given pleasure. Good comics, panels and humorous text features have a definite place in the war program. Women's features of the instructive nature fill a definite need. The wise editor will seek to improve his features, not to eliminate them."

Albert L. Leman, McClure Newspaper Syndicate, says:

"Confused brains and shaky nerves destroy morale. Syndicates are fitted to combat this dangerous state. News gives what-when-where but the public must also understand the how-and-why of cataclysmic events. It hungers for the background, under-surface, unmuzzled facts of life. It needs the escapist release of comics, fiction and light features to prevent jitters. Local news can be condensed."

There seems to be general agreement that news, of course, comes first: but that readers hunger for the how-and-why which they get in the editorial column, the "heart of the paper," where attempt is made at interpretation of news in terms of life; and that comics and light features help to keep people balanced and cheerful.

Medical Property In Beer

PEOPLE who like beer have always argued that it was good for them, but that might be wishful thinking. Yet beer is one of the oldest human beverages, and might be expected to have some merit beyond the mere fact that people like it. A surprising report has been made by two Denver physicians, Drs. O. S. Fowler and Paul C. Carson, to the Southwest Division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, regarding a "friendly alkaline microbe" discovered in stale beer by a Russian scientist in 1915.

This microbe was considered poisonous, a natural assumption in view of the general prejudice against stale beer. But the scientists now report that, while such beer may be no good as a beverage, it has wonderful medicinal properties. That friendly alkaline microbe, when given a free rein, kills many kinds of disease microbes, including those producing common colds, tooth decay, chronic sinus infections and asthma. It is called "bacillus Alkaligenes" because it alkalizes living tissues. Used on animals by putting the "bug" into the blood stream, it is said to slaughter disease microbes by the million. In surgery it acts as an effective antiseptic.

If all this is true, we may soon be getting stale beer in capsules.

Two great commodities not rationed, and not likely to be, are patriotism and good will to men.

People seem to be getting as much interested in the war as they are in Hollywood.

DUCK DINNER INDEFINITELY POSTPONED

Summer Shift for U. S. Schools

—By JACK STINNETT

(First of two articles.)

WASHINGTON — "Yoo-hoo, Skinnay—school's out" used to be the June cry of American youth, but it won't be this year.

Commissioner John W. Studebaker's office of education has issued this pronouncement: "This summer comes not as a time for vacation but as an opportunity for (the schools') pointing up their services toward certain basic objectives highlighted by the needs of the armed forces and of war production.

As President Roosevelt once pointed out, the educators just have to say it the hard way.

All that means is that any school that doesn't keep open this summer and contribute its plant and personnel in some way to the war effort is skipping its opportunity to be of important use to the community and the nation.

JUST so those opportunities won't be overlooked, the office of education's wartime commission has outlined them and they are worth repeating. For example, schools, which heretofore have gathered nothing but dust and broken windows through the summer heat, can touch off a little T.N.T. under the enemy this year (so the commission says) by offering their buildings and staffs for—

(1) Courses in mathematics, English, social studies and science.

(2) Aviation education — from model building on up.

(3) Training of women and girls for all trade and clerical occupations.

(4) Courses in nursing, nutrition, first aid.

(5) Intensive physical fitness courses for lads and lassies who will be up for military training or war work within the next three years.

(6) Office of Civilian Defense (OCD) courses for air raid wardens, auxiliary fire and police wardens and other OCD jobs as may be needed in those areas.

(7) Continuation and expansion of such vocational and agricultural courses as now are offered under the federal aid program.

THE office of education already is batting off outlines for all courses suggested in the first six recommendations. But it is pointed out that each local school administration must decide its own needs and adapt its summer school program to its own community requirements.

Time was when summer school was something to be attended by the laggards who couldn't keep up with the rest of the class or some smart Johnny or Mary who wanted to reach high school or college at the prodigy age.

The latter may sneak in this summer—if their particular talents apply to the war effort—but there will be no dumb clucks in this wartime summer school. The office of education recommends that counselors be appointed to select only those who will benefit most and those who will benefit the country's all-out military program most by this special summer school training.

Mansfield's four garden clubs, Johnny Appleseed, Mansfield Garden club, Astowela and Town and Country, agreed to sponsor the school children's garden contests.

Hazel Van Scoy and Michael Mercurio were married at the St. Peter's parsonage.

Mrs. Martha Cromer, 92, one of the city's oldest residents, died.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gildersleede.

Paul Hehman, 15 Western avenue, was named vice president of the student branch of the American Society of Chemical Engineers at the University of Detroit.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Musician, painter, theologian and linguist, Alighieri Duranti, better known as Dante, was born this day in 1265. Dante studied at the universities of Bologna, Padua, Naples, Paris and Oxford. Rich, honored, poor and despised, he learned the arts of war and peace. His travels far and wide brought him in contact with men and women in all walks of life. All his treasured learning he embodied in one immortal work which he gave to the world—"The Divine Comedy."

Listen World!

He Kept the Faith

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HE WAS a young man, too, back there in 1858, though he may seem mere history to us today in 1942. He was a young man. He felt the dreams that young men feel and was moved by their desires. He was warm-blooded, ambitious and impulsive. And all around him great things were doing.

Fremont had newly brought California into the Union. Over three thousand miles of America stretched unlimited adventure, but danger mingled with that adventure, and loneliness that ate into the heart like acid. It was terrible and beautiful and tempting, that western trail, but it was not a good trail for any man to walk alone.

And yet, he who so loved life and his fellow men, turned his back on it all and took that trail without companions. His name was Father Cherouce and he chose as his mission the forsaken crags and gullies of what is now Washington, where the Flathead Indians lived and where he could not hope to see a white man in months or hear an English word. There, facing abysmal ignorance and indifference, he built his little chapel with his own hands and began to preach the only way of life that has ever led man out of the brute jungle.

Last Christmas I was very ill. Faith seemed a mocking dream. Then someone placed in my hand a box. I opened it listlessly. Within it lay a crude, hand-hewn cross and on that cross, worked in living bronze, the greatest symbol man has ever known through all despair and loneliness — the body of Christ.

The wood in the cross was worn and I suspect darkened with many a secret tear, scarred with many a frantic plea that he might hold the faith. What the cross must have meant to Father Cherouce in his long, long vigil, I dare not think. But I know what it should mean to you and to me today, for we too stand alone against barbarism and we, too, must keep the faith if it is to survive.

I am not a Catholic but of this I am sure. Every man and woman in America should wear a cross in his heart during these times, and a crown of thorns. For He who died on that cross was the first one who ever dared dream of Democracy. He, too, was young and must have loved life warmly. And yet He gave that life in a rebellion against cowardice and crookedness and cruelty.

When you come to the last stand, that is all that any of us can do. And the American who is not willing to do so is not worthy of his name. No matter what your background, if you are a real American you will take up that cross and carry on the work which He laid down on Calvary. For this is not a war for possessions. Nor even a war of defense. This is a war between free souls and those who would impose shackles on them.

Yes, I can follow with faint enthusiasm that last sacred prayer, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." But with every ounce of my hot pioneering blood, I am adding, "And give them the shellacking the dirty dogs deserve."

Grab Bag

One-Minute Test.

1. Who was the author of "The White Man's Burden?"
2. What is a "cringle?"
3. Who was the Ancient Mariner?

Words of Wisdom.

The most positive men are the most credulous, since they most believe themselves, and advise most with their falsest flatterer and worst enemy, their own self-love.—Pope.

Hints on Etiquette.

When the boy friend is home from camp on a furlough, don't entertain him by telling how tough it is for you to have all the nice boys away, or how hard you have to work, etc. Be jolly and show him women can "take it," and are "taking it," too, as well as the men.

One-Minute Best Answers.

1. Rudyard Kipling.
2. A metal ring or eye sewed into a sail, through which a rope may be passed.
3. The narrator and central figure of Coleridge's poem by that name.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

FDR Waits Biddle's Report on Information Agency Shake-Up

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Behind the president's at-long-last announcement that he will co-ordinate the government's far-flung information agencies, is one of the worst administrative messes in Washington. The hodge-podge has needed cleaning up for months.

Here is the roll call of agencies which distribute news for the government.

OGR, or Office of Government Reports.

COI, of Office of the Co-Ordinator of Information, better known as the Donovan committee.

OFF, or Office of Facts and Figures. The War Censorship Board.

OCIA, or Office of the Co-Ordinator of Inter-American Affairs, better known as the Rockefeller committee.

The huge, sprawling Press Division of the OEM (Office of Emergency Management.

Also the press bureaus of the war and navy departments, the U. S. Maritime commission and practically every other independent agency in the government.

All these operate with little or no inter-relation; result, a bedlam of overlapping, working at cross purposes, bureaucratic jealousies, bungling and inefficiency.

Examples.

FOR example: One of these publicity agencies obtained confidential information of the mistreatment of prisoners by the Japs. But another agency blocked publication of the report on the ground that it might "distress the sensibilities" of the American people.

Another agency was informed that a file of critical editorial comments from U. S. newspapers is cabled daily to Lisbon, there turned over to Axis agents, who use the material for radio propaganda against this country in South America. Yet this agency has been unable to obtain a report on this matter from the agency which has control over all cable messages.

Real Reason.

REAL reason for Roosevelt's long delay in cleaning up this chaos has been his reluctance to rap certain high-placed knuckles and to step on certain eminent toes.

Ever since it became apparent that something would have to be done about the jumble of information agencies, a furious undercover tug-of-war has been in progress among them for preference. OCI, OCIA, the army and navy have pulled wire to prevent being co-ordinated and to retain their autonomous status.

Dawdling OGR Chief Lowell Mellett, apparently aware that he had no chance to be made co-ordinator, nobly disclaimed any desire for the job. But he vigorously pressed the appointment of a close friend no better qualified than he is.

Finally, the name of Elmer Davis, crack newsman and radio commentator, was suggested to the president. However, the president didn't get very far: for after looking over the tangle of jealousies and intrigue, Davis sent word to the White House that he did not want the job.

Shortly after this, the president turned the whole matter over to Attorney General Biddle to draw up a plan and recommend a co-ordinator, thus short-circuiting Budget Director Harold Smith who had been trying to stick his ambitious oar into this churning sea.

Roosevelt is now awaiting Biddle's report.

Scooped His Wife.

COL. EMMANUEL LOMBARD, former military attache of the French embassy, recently joined the Free French cause in public protest against Laval. Washington might have expected this news to appear first in a certain gossip column written by Madame Lombard, his wife. But it didn't.

To the office of the Washington Star came a mysterious phone call for newsman Blair Bolles. It was a woman, but not Madame Lombard. "If you want a good story," said the voice, "call this number in ten minutes, and ask Col. Lombard about his plans for the future."

Bolles called the number she had given him, got Lombard, and learned that he was going to join Gen. deGaulle. The story appeared on the front page of the Star—the same paper which carries the syndicated column of Madame Helen Lombard.

When the colonel got home that evening, he found his columnist wife waiting for him, with the paper in her hands.

"What's this about your going over to the Free French?" she demanded.

"Yes, Helen," he said. "It's true."

"But Emmanuel!" she exclaimed. "Do you know what you've done? You've scooped me!"

RR's vs. Ships.

IT HASN'T made headlines, but a battle royal has been raging between WPB Czar Donald Nelson and Transportation Czar Joe Eastman over the freezing of steel for the construction of railroad cars.

With less and less shipping moving along the coast, and more and more traffic by rail, the question is one of the most important facing the country.

What happened was that the War Production Board froze all construction materials already on hand in railroad construction shops. The intention was to transfer these materials for use in building other types of cars.

However, Joe Eastman claims that these materials, chiefly steel, already had been bought and cut for certain cars, in certain shapes, so the order merely will make the materials go unused, with car shops closing down.

Already, Eastman argues, certain plants of Pullman Standard are idle, at a time when all plants should be used to capacity.

Meanwhile railroads are groaning with traffic. Sugar is now being hauled by rail as much as possible from Florida to avoid submarines. Oil is clogged up in the producing fields for lack of railroad transportation. And with the sinkings of several Chilean ore ships, more iron ore has to be hauled from interior U. S. iron mines.

In view of all this, Eastman complains bitterly that Nelson won't release the steel and let the car foundries do the job.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Take a day like today . . . You couldn't tell it was going to be any different. It started out just like any other day. The sun came up. The coffee tasted good. The buses were running. The newspapers were on the corner stands with their big black headlines.

As I stood on the corner, waiting for traffic to slow down a little, my doctor poked his head out of a car and said, "Come on."

"Where you going?" I asked and got in.

"Hospital," he said. "Want to see a Caesarian?"

I had seen them before but never one such as this turned out to be, because it was twins, and along about ten o'clock this morning there were two sturdy lads who hadn't been in that room when we first went in.

I hate to bore you by telling you that the mother named both of them after Gen. MacArthur, but she did.

THEN I went down town and had lunch with a man who manufactures rum in Puerto Rico. . . . A lot of his rum, he admitted, was at the bottom of the Atlantic, startling the fishes, somewhere between San Juan and New York . . . When he goes down to Puerto Rico now, as he does once a month, he flies. . . . He leaves again tomorrow. . . . "But right now," he told me, "my secretary's getting married, and I'm going to see it, and you're coming with me."

It was a high noon wedding, at the Little Church Around the Corner. . . . The actor's church, the little Episcopal church so beloved by Broadway.

The church was beautiful, as it always is. . . . The music was gorgeous, as it always is. . . . The bride was lovely, as I hope she will always be.

We stood in the rear and watched her go down the aisle, and meet the groom, and say the words. . . . As usual, all the men were grinning and all the ladies were dabbing their hankies at their eyes, having a nice little comforting cry, and then the groom with his bride hurried up the aisle, and my friend, the rum manufacturer, gave her a big kiss, and they hurried out and drove away in a car.

OUTSIDE, I got into a cab and drove up Madison to 42nd street. . . . As I got out, and turned toward Grand Central, men began to run toward the corner of Vanderbilt avenue, and the cops blew their whistles, and by the time I got there, there were 50 standersby crowding around a man who was lying on his back on the pavement.

"Get back, you!" the cops were screaming. One of the cops was on his knees, opening the man's collar, trying to pat his wrists. But you could tell — anybody could tell—by the blue color and the grey pallor that came over his face that it was too late. This man was dead. Heart attack. Just like that.

I walked slowly back to the office. . . . Birth . . . wedding . . . death. . . . That's the three great things in a man's life . . . and a woman's. . . . I never thought I'd see anything like that when I got up this morning, and drank my coffee, and started out. . . . Well, you never know.

Tomorrow is the happiest day in the average man's life.

A Farmer's Diary

May Morning

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MAY has let herself go, this year, in our small valley—as if to make amends for the deeds of men by pouring out the glories of nature at her loveliest.

Soon after daylight, I came out from our cottage, fresh from sleep, and walked barefoot and bare-chested across the soft dark newly plowed garden. Little plum trees flaunted nosegays beneath my very eyes. The maples wore pale green fringes. The green and greener hills "leaned against the sky." The sun came through the valley curtains, at the gap, and glistened the dew on the meadowy valley floor. I stood breathing deep, and burrowed with my toes into the damp, smooth loam. It was aweful, the exhilarating goodness of everything. The delicate high note of a wood peewee came from the slope, too poignant for human understanding.

The apple tree was pink and white; liliacs were budded; a gentle south wind brought odors of blossoms and dewy fields and stirred mellow earth. White clouds, puffed out, marched across behind the treetops; the sunshine, through small crumpled leaves, glimmered the ground with shadows.

Nothing harsh was here, nor cold, nor shamming. Only bloom, and promise, and deep warm soil that would yield fulfillment if a man but did his part. I was deeply stirred by all this fundamental rightness and natural beauty, and "yielded myself to the perfect whole." Throughout the day the memory kept recurring, and I held it close, as something rare and precious.

This evening, in an old book, I came upon these anonymous lines:

"Listen to the exhortation of the dawn!
Look to this day! For it is life,
the very life of life.
In its brief course lie all the varieties
And realities of your existence.
The bliss of growth,
The glory of action,
The splendor of beauty,
For yesterday is but a dream,
and tomorrow is only a vision,
But today, well lived,
Makes every yesterday a dream of happiness
And every tomorrow a vision of hope."

I am no poet. But sometimes I think I know how poets feel. At this season of the year, it seems to me, farming and poetry ought not to be too far separated.

Whoever loves the land must feel the stir of Maytime in his veins. It gives zest to life, savor to work, and even consolation to sweat and blood and tears.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Wash the dishes, make the beds, sweep the floor . . . who married Pop, you or me?!!"

SPEED WORK ON 'PHONE BUILDING

Start Installation of Long Distance Lines June 1, Ohio Bell Announces.

The Ohio Bell Telephone company's new building at 131-137 West Second street is nearing completion and workmen are expected to begin installing long distance and repeater station equipment soon after June 1, according to company officials in Cleveland.

Constructed of brick and steel, the new building will cost $65,000, while the entire cost, including equipment, will be $166,000.

The building is 45 by 60 feet. It has two stories and a basement. Equipment will be installed in the basement and first-floor rooms. On the second floor will be long distance operating rooms and a kitchen and lounge rooms for the operators

Equipment to be installed in Mansfield will connect with the company's new 165-mile long distance cable network now being constructed at a cost of $1,600,000 to provide for increased long-distance traffic resulting from the nation's war program, company officials said.

The new cable system will extend from Massillon through Mansfield to Findlay and Delaware and will have connecting lines to Galion, Marion, and Wooster. The Mansfield building is among three being built under the expansion program. The others are at Big Island, northwest of Marion, and at East Union, near Wooster.

Congress Plans Summer Adjournment

THE WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

The great naval battle which is being fought between Allied and Japanese fleets across the coral sea east of Australia is still too young for us to judge its effects.

But we can see the fundamental strategy which precipitated it—that is to nullify the effectiveness of Australia as a United Nations base and protect Nippon's conquests in Indonesia.

American, British and Australian units are reported to have sunk or damaged 16 Jap warships in this five-day-old conflict. Tokyo claims the sinking of five United Nations vessels, including a United States battleship and two of our aircraft carriers, the Saratoga and the Yorktown.

Australian Prime Minister Curtin terms the engagement "of crucial importance to the whole conduct of the war in the southwest Pacific."

That seems a fair statement of the position, while we do not know the size of the fleets involved, domination of the Pacific may be bound up in the issue should either side suffer a disastrous defeat.

It seems doubtful that the Japanese were bent on wholesale invasion of Australia. The probabilities are that they have been aiming (1) at the cutting of American communications with Australia to prevent our delivery of supplies and troops, and (2) at the possible occupation of some strategic points on the north coast of Australia, or at least rendering the positions impotent. These operations would tend to nullify Australia's striking power against the Japanese left flank in the southwest Pacific and permit the Nipponese to consolidate their widespread conquests.

Of course a Japanese victory in the sea-battle might bring about a complete change in Japanese tactics. They might undertake operations which up to this juncture haven't been feasible, including a major invasion of Australia.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Manhattan Nights.

WELL, here it is May on Broadway, the zing of spring is in the air, the moon is big over Loew's State, there are sonnets sung in Shubert Alley; the guys look at the girls and the girls look at the guys and the favorite cliche is "Where have you been all my life?"

Kilgallen

It's just the calendar. Nothing new about it, it's been happening for years and it happens in other places, too, in just about the same way.

Across the river, over in Passaic. Up in Detroit, where you can hear the machines roaring day and night. Deep in the heart of Texas. It's just the same there. Manhattan has no corner on love in Maytime. The only thing different about love on Broadway is the way people behave after it's over.

It's really funny. Here, when love flies out the window, friendship glides in the door. When the thrill is gone, its ghost pops up a very blithe spirit, indeed. You don't bury a dead love on Broadway; instead, you bury the hatchet when love dies.

Take the case of the young man in charge of selecting chorus beauties for the lavish new Latin Quarter on Broadway. Wally Wanger, his name is—no relation to the Walter Wanger of Hollywood except that his private life might make a motion picture plot.

This Wally Wanger has been producing girl shows in the various night clubs around town for a number of years, and several Springs ago when he was staging the routines for Leon and Eddie's a beautiful young dancer was among those who answered the call for girls. She got the job, and she got the director's heart along with it. Ronnie Gilbert was her name, but she soon changed it to Mrs. Wally Wanger.

They made, as the saying goes, a lovely couple. Ronnie helped Wally create production numbers, and usually when he assembled a new chorus line, she'd be in it. They were in all the gay places together. Sometimes they'd discuss business—costumes and song arrangements and chorus routines. Sometimes they'd just sit and smile into each other's eyes.

Well, the springs went by one and then another and another, and quite suddenly the Wally Wangers weren't together any more. Friends learned the rift was serious. They separated formally; and after that you saw her in night clubs with other people, and him in night clubs alone.

This season Wally was given the job of selecting and training the chorus for the Latin Quarter. Hundreds of girls crowded into the big bare empty club on the afternoon of the chorus call; but it was only a matter of seconds before Wanger's quick eye had singled out one girl, and he appointed her to dance and act as captain of the chorines.

Wally and the chorus captain got along nobly. They seem to understand each other perfectly. And why not? Hadn't she learned all about him, this Ronnie Gilbert—when she was his wife?

Yes, Broadway's guys and girls become pals when love hits the road. Take the case of the fellow and girl who met the other day at a corner table in Jack Dempsey's for a business appointment. The girl didn't look much like a business appointment, being dark and pretty, with a way of listening to the gent in a careful, affectionate way.

No wonder she does, because he happens to be her business manager, and a good one, too. He thinks she's worth a lot of money. He is sold on her glamour and personality and he has a way of making theater tycoons think she's hot stuff, too. One of them, listening to his line, was recently moved to josh: "If you think so much of her, why don't you marry her?"

"I did," said the manager. But what he—Agent Emmett Callahan—didn't add is that he and his favorite client, Ann Corio, have long since come to the parting of the ways.

Professionally? Heavens, no! Just matrimonially.

U. S. TO FREEZE LUMBER STOCKS, FEARS SHORTAGE

Furniture Industry Converted To Making of Wooden Planes, Gliders.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The government soon will freeze stocks of all construction lumber in the nation, it was learned today as the war production board disclosed that the furniture industry is rapidly being converted to make "large numbers" of wooden planes, gliders and other munition products.

Production of most everyday furniture items will cease completely by next year, when the industry will be hitting a billion-dollar-a-year war stride, it was forecast.

Meanwhile, war agencies are becoming alarmed over threatened shortages of so-called soft-wood construction lumber needed for cantonments, airfields, bases and ships. WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson already has appealed to logging and sawmill operators and workers to bring production of construction lumber to a maximum.

Nelson said that he requested "immediate action," because, "the situation is so critical."

WPB lumber officials working under Nelson, are drafting an order freezing all construction lumber stocks and placing them under a system of rigid allocation control. Private purchases of such lumber without government permits will be halted. The order is expected to be issued within the next few days.

Later, it may be extended to plywood and light woods needed for making "wooden" planes, particularly when the furniture industry enters large scale war production.

The WPB's industry operations division revealed that the furniture industry has been given more than $500,000,000 worth of war contracts. The industry, which normally does a $1,000,000,000-a-year business second only to the automobile industry in the durable goods line, will be producing war goods at a $1,000,000,000-a-year rate in 1943, it was predicted.

The metal furniture manufacturers, it was said, will be converted to making ammunition boxes, tail and wing assemblies for planes, rear fin struts, seating equipment for planes, tanks and ships, and special types of furniture needed by the armed services of the United Nations.

OHIO'S 37TH RARIN' TO GO

Beightler Declares Troops Are Better Trained Than Any in World War I.

(By Associated Press)

WITH THE 37TH DIVISION—Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, commanding officer of Ohio's 37th Division, described his men today as "a little reckless because they're rarin' to go."

He said the outfit was better trained than any first world war division when it went overseas.

"Every one of our soldiers knows his weapons," Beightler asserted, "and now is a well-trained veteran in the use of them. The boys have a fine appearance, are well trained but a little reckless because they're rarin' to go."

After 18 months of training the men have become hardened troops with "magnificent" morale and excellent health, he declared.

"They react very well," he continued. "Each man thinks his company is best, his regiment is finest, and he would rather be with the Ohio division than any other."

Beightler explained that "our boys will have to learn from experience, too. We realize we are up against formidable opponents. The Japs, for example, had China for a proving ground, thus giving them an advantage. But we think we know their methods, we have studied their engagements, and we have taught our boys how to cope with both German and Jap tactics."

One of the soldiers summed up the 37th's attitude:

"You can tell America the Ohio boys are ready. Let's go."

'Man of Destiny' Expects Wife to Bear Quintuplets

CULHAM, Eng.—(U.P.)—Private Arthur John Woodley, whose wife, Emily, is about to give birth to three or more babies, believes there will be five because he is "a man of destiny."

"It's just like a gypsy fortune teller told my sister years ago," he said. "She told my sister that her brother Jack—that's me—would be very successful. However, I admit I never thought fame would come this way."

Dr. J. H. Fisher, the attending physician, who is a young man, is skeptical over his patient's prospects of becoming the mother of quintuplets, though Oxford university medical experts, studying X-ray plates of Mrs. Woodley, believe there is a considerable possibility that she will.

"It's triplets for sure and maybe quads, but I'm afraid the possibility of quintuplets is very slim, no matter how much the villagers want them," he said. "They are so excited about the matter I've even heard reports that we expect sextuplets and they probably will hike that figure if Mrs. Woodley doesn't hurry and have those babies."

OPEN $18,000,000 AIRCRAFT RESEARCH LAB AT CLEVELAND

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — The First unit of Cleveland's new $18,000,000 aircraft engine research laboratory opened today at Cleveland airport and first actual research activities were begun.

A wire service and newspaper reporters looked on, Dr. George W. Lewis, director of aeronautical research and John F. Victory, secretary of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, manned the controls of a large airplane engine with propellor attached as it roared into action in an enclosed chamber in the engine-propellor research building.

Immediately a battery of instruments began recording a graph for research engineers that will assist the aircraft engine industry to greater achievement in design and performance.

Most of the other units will be in operation before the end of this year, Dr. Lewis said, one year ahead of schedule.

Since Pearl Harbor construction of the engine-propellor research building has been expedited because of the importance of the type of research to be conducted in the advancement of more powerful, speedier and longer-ranged aircraft now so much in need on the far-flung fronts of the United Nations.

Two of the major research functions to be carried out in the engine-propellor unit concern engine lubrication and cooling systems. Conduct of warfare at high altitudes and the need for more effective planes for long-range attack make these problems important, Dr. Lewis declared.

The laboratory is on a 200-acre site west of the airport. It has the entire design staff of Langley Field, Va., transferred here last December. The staff has been quartered temporarily in the flight research hangar in order to expedite construction.

Clean-up Week Ends Tomorrow in Sixth Ward.

Mansfield's Clean-Up week campaign, sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce, today started to pick up speed in the home stretch.

Lester L. Linham, city garbage superintendent, said today that collections in the Fourth ward yesterday were the best to date and that early reports from city garbage workers today indicated that Fifth ward residents were co-operating by getting out all rubbish to the curbs for collection by a city truck.

This year's campaign, slanted toward not only cleaning up the home but also salvaging materials which may be used for war production, started out slowly with collections in the First and Second wards falling far below expectations.

The clean-up drive will come to an end tomorrow with the collection of rubbish in the Sixth ward.

BUCYRUS WOMAN TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. George Hurter, 79, Succumbs Following Brief Illness.

BUCYRUS — A life-long resident of Bucyrus, Mrs. George Hurter, 79, died Thursday in City hospital following a brief illness.

Surviving are her husband; two brothers, Paul Streib of Reno, Nev., and Frederick Streib, of Pasadena, Calif., and a sister, Miss Mary Streib, of Bucyrus.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Monday at Good Hope Lutheran church, of which she was a member. Rev. H. H. Glick, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

The North Main street bridge over Touby's run was receiving the final touches today and county commissioners hoped the work will put an end to a problem that has bothered them for the past three years. Work on the wooden bridge over the creek was started last fall and traffic was permitted to flow over it before the first of this year. Workmen today were paving the roadway over the top with three inches of "black-top" material. The old bridge was washed out by flood waters three years ago and a temporary structure was in use for more than two years.

LEGISLATORS PLAN AUGUST, JULY RECESS

See All Appropriation Bills Out of Way; Would Hold Up Major Tax Measure.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders today mapped plans for adjournment during July and August under an arrangement by which both the senate and house could be summoned back into session to meet a possible war emergency.

Although congress refused to adjourn before the nation entered the war, leaders indicated that there is a general change of feeling with many members urging a summer respite.

All major appropriation bills, it was pointed out, must be passed by July 1, the beginning of a new fiscal year. Since congress has granted huge appropriations and vested wide power in President Roosevelt for directing the war, leaders say that there is little likelihood of important legislation being proposed during the summer.

A recess probably would mean postponement of final enactment of the proposed $7,600,000,000 tax bill until September. The house is expected to pass the measure during June. The senate financial committee will open hearings immediately after the house acts.

"My disposition would be to press ahead with hearings and work on the tax bill. But this could be carried on with congress in recess," said Sen. George (D.), Ga., chairman of the finance committee.

Both the senate and house faced a task in disposing of huge money bills in the next seven weeks.

A battle is expected in the upper chamber next week on a "rider" to the agriculture supply bill, probihiting sale of surplus farm products at less than parity prices. Despite President Roosevelt's opposition to the legislation, leaders admit that it will be approved by the senate.

"Farm bloc" leaders, also refusing to accept Mr. Roosevelt's anti-inflation proposal that the price ceiling on farm products be fixed at 100 per cent of parity prices, instead of 110 per cent as in the present law, considered urging a sliding scale system.

The senate military affairs committee today was expected to recommend passage of the Rogers bill creating a women's auxiliary corps in the army.

As the committee prepared for a showdown, word was received that high army officials prefer a bill which would allow them to enlist women in the army instead of setting up a separate reserve corps.

With both the senate and house in recess, leaders in military affairs sought to reach an agreement on legislation for allottments to dependents of soldiers who may be called in the draft.

TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. W. C. Harry, 54, Succumbs After Heart Attack.

Mrs. W. Clarence Harry, 54, wife of the secretary of the Mansfield Structural and Erecting company, died early today at her home on Bahl avenue, East Mansfield, following a heart attack.

Mrs. Harry was born in Wayne county on May 9, 1888, but resided in East Mansfield for the last 40 years. She was a member of the United Presbyterian church of East Mansfield.

Survivors are her husband, a son, Wilbur; four daughters, Mrs. Ralph Meredith, Mrs. J. L. Wittel, and the Misses Ina and Esther Harry, all of Mansfield; a brother, Ira Ervin of Mansfield; and a sister, Mrs. Glenn Caillet of Orrville.

Double Duty Suit Dresses

Left, two-piece dress with beige skirt, chocolate brown top; center, powder blue strutter cloth suit dress; right, black outfit with white trim.

By SUSAN BARDEN
(International Illustrated News Writer)

American women who are not in uniform are going in for good-looking clothes that are feminine without fussiness These outfits are easy and functional, yet knowingly tailored, and people who are busy with volunteer work or careers have found that they can do better jobs these days, when minutes count, in these types of costumes, because they do not have to fuss or worry about their appearance.

Suit dresses are an outstanding example of this style daytime dress, and are increasingly popular with women in all walks of life, whether they are working in an office or for a cause.

The three models in the above photographs are quite different in style and treatment, but they are all designed to do double duty. They are smart and useful as suits, and trim and charming when worn without blouses, using the jacket as the top of the frock.

Ideal for Wear Around Town.

The outfit chosen by Veronica Lake is ideal for wear around town during the day and for informal dinner dates later on. It is that always flattering and smart combination—black and white. The straight skirt has front fullness, and a scroll pattern of stark white cotton braid trims the front and shoulders of the waist-length fitted jacket. The hat is a hand crocheted off-the-face white chenille, which has a scroll pattern at the edge of the wide brim to match the braid trim on the suit. Black shoes and white gauntlet gloves are worn with this costume.

Elisabeth Frazer has selected a two-piece dress that is trimly tailored and suitable for wear most any hour in the day, either in town or in the country. The box-pleated skirt of beige crepe is worn with a jacket-like top of chocolate brown. The buttons and turned-down collar and binding of beige give a well-groomed look to the ensemble.

Jane Wyman is wearing a smart suit dress of powder blue strutter cloth. The jacket is styled with high shallow lapels, flap pockets at the top and plain ones at the hips. The skirt is well-cut with a kick pleat at center front and back.

Katherine Aberle Guild Gives Mothers' Banquet

Members of the Katherine Aberle Guild entertained the mothers and daughters of the church with a Mother's day banquet in the church parlors Thursday evening. One hundred and forty were in attendance and enjoyed the dinner served at long tables, attractively decorated with pink, blue and yellow appointments, dainty maypoles and lighted tapers.

Toastmistress for the occasion was Mrs. Mary Hachten. Prayer was led by Mrs. Ada Saleste and Mrs. Helen Post extended the welcome to the guests. Miss Elaine Watson favored with a reading and Miss Betty Cleckner played a vibraharp solo. Principal talk of the evening was given by Mrs. Harry Downs, who spoke on the observance of Mother's day.

Corsages were presented to the oldest mother present, Mrs. Marie Laubscher, and the youngest, Mrs. Lydia Boyer. Mrs. Gladys Matthes and her committee served the dinner.

Colors for Blonds and Brunettes

Blessed is the woman who possesses the dress sense. She will instinctively select the right mode, the most becoming colors and flattering lines. She not only knows what she should wear, but what is right for others. It is that special gift that has been the making of the great dress designers. It is a combination of good taste, good judgment, a keen appreciation of line and color.

Woman's attire is practical. Jolly little items can be picked up at reasonable prices. There is no reason why the phrail sex should not be well dressed. Gay frocks don't cost any more than dismal ones; they're worth twice the price because of what they do for morale.

To the woman of uncertain mind, who never knows what she wants, plain colors are safer than patterned goods. Her special forte is pouncing on a frock that is too fussy. Simple modes are smartest. Fluff stuff is only suitable for the festive evening occasion. With the tailored suit one can't go wrong.

Color, as well as line, is a deciding factor in dress. Rich tones have strong appeal, make a woman appear vivid and interesting.

To draw up rigid rules on colors suitable for certain complexions, shades of hair and coloring of the eyes is well nigh impossible because the type of woman, her size and age must also be considered. But there are general ideas that often work out happily and successfully.

If the girl with brown hair, brown eyes and golden skin wears black, it should carry a bit of brightness, like cerise or jade green, otherwise her skin will be drained of natural coloring. Black and white are trying colors, but not as trying as cold grays and purple.

Navy blue is the good old friend to all of us—blonds, brunettes and the betwixt-and-betweens.

The blond baby with flaxen hair and blue eyes can wear black effectively. She can also make a pleasing picture of herself in light green orchid, warm dark brown and pinkish beige. Some blonds fare forth in red, but few look their best in flaming colors. They favor light blue because their mamas made them wear it in their childhood days, but if the birthdays have taken a toll they should fight shy of it. It makes them look washed out.

For white-haired ladies, luscious blues, rose shades, mauves, violet, dove grays bring out the transparent delicacy of the skin and the silver shine in the hirsute crown.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

The captain of the state troopers unexpectedly seconded Gus's protest, but without the vehemence and emphasis which had marked the words and manner of the man to whom my father had assigned the task of especially guarding me.

"There's a lot in what he says, Mrs. Graham," he told me. "Those fellows are bad medicine when they have a grudge against you."

"I know all that," I told him, "but you forget that the first two men, who impersonated Professor Diswell and his aid, are the brainest and the most dangerous of the lot. They saw me, and had plenty of opportunity to mark me in their memories.

"Besides," I went on, "I do not wish to appear boastful, but any men dangerous enough to engage my father's surveillance will not be in position to harm anyone, once they are safe in his custody. They are hired murderers, every one of them, and they will get short shrift."

Captain Leads the Way.

I saw Gus shake his head sadly, but he made no further protest, and the captain gestured toward the armored car of the gangsters.

"They are all in there," he said, "and it is rather a tight fit, especially for the four who are not injured. We tried to make it as comfortable as we could for the two wounded men. Let me take you over."

"I must not delay you," I said but he slipped his hand beneath my arm in a determined fashion which told me any protest would only waste time, and escorted me to the car where Bill, of our own guard, sat in the driver's seat, with Jim Watson and the state trooper whom the captain had detailed for the trip crowded beside him, but facing the rear of the car.

"What are you doing with the pad of paper and pencil, and all those hen tracks?" Jim Watson was asking as we came up, and I guessed that his question and the trooper's answer had been pre-arranged, in order that the trooper could take down stenographic notes of any conversation among the gangsters without exciting their suspicions.

"Catching up on my home work," the trooper replied with a grin. "I had a lot of work to type out tonight, when the cap slipped me this job of playing nurse and watch dog to these babies here. I can't type it, of course, but I can get it in better shape to type than it is now. He goes so fast when he dictates that I have to spend hours afterward entangling the snarl. And with you along I can afford to take an eye off our little charges here occasionally."

"They aren't in any shape to make any trouble," Watson told him. I agreed with him when I saw how securely the impersonators of Professor Diswell and Jack, and the two other unwounded gangsters, were bound. They were seated as close together on the floor of the car as sacks of potatoes in a produce car, while the two wounded men, also bound, had been given all the room available and stretched out on blankets.

The eyes of the wounded men were closed and their faces contorted with pain, but the eyes of the other four gangsters were all fixed upon me with a baleful glare that sent an icy slither down my back, even though I knew they could do me no harm.

They were not gagged, but I knew there was no reason to fear they would try to attract attention to themselves by calling out, unless they encountered some of their gangster associates on the homeward journey, and that was most unlikely. Although they probably would talk in a jargon unintelligible to anyone else, a literal stenographic copy of every syllable would be taken by the officer and turned over to me at the end of the trip.

Gets Telephone Number.

There was something else that was to be turned over to me before we should start, and with an injunction to Bill to start on ahead, going the way we had come, but waiting for us at Branchman's, I shook hands with Mr. Branchman, and thanked him warmly for his help. Then the voice of the captain of the troopers forestalled the request I was about to make.

"I have that telephone number and message for you now, Mrs. Graham," he said in low tones.

C. B. BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. Clyde Benninghoff, 628 South Main street, entertained members of the C. B. Bridge club at her home Thursday evening. Two tables were in play and prizes were won by Mrs. Anna Kampf and Mrs. Franklin Haupt. Orchid yellow and green sweet peas centered the small tables where refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held June 4 at the home of Mrs. Ray Scott, Sloane avenue.

LARKSPUR CLUB.

Last night's meeting of the Larkspur club was held at the home of Mrs. Clara Johns, Temple Court. Discussion took place regarding defense work. A donation was made to a patient in the Mansfield General hospital. The club planned a covered-dish dinner at North Lake park on June 3. Prizes in games were won by Mrs. Elmira Caugherty and Mrs. Janet Hamilton. Luncheon was served at small tables decorated with spring flowers.

Rhubarb Pie.

3½ cups rhubarb
¾ cup sugar
Pastry for 2 crusts
1 tablespoon butter

Fit lower pie crust into pan, cut washed rhubarb in 1-inch pieces, pour sugar over it, dot with butter, cut into small pieces, put on top crust, and bake at 425 degrees F. for 10 minutes, then lower heat to 375 degrees and finish cooking. Wet edges of crust with cold water to keep juice in, and cut vents in top for air to escape. If you want a thickening, use tapioca. The pie will not be so likely to boil over, but, in my opinion, is not quite so good. That is only my prejudice, however. If you use tapioca, take 1½ tablespoons of the quick-cooking kind, ¼ teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon melted butter. Measure tapioca, add sugar, and salt and mix well. Stir in melted butter, then add rhubarb, mix well and proceed as with other recipe. Do not peel rhubarb unless the skin is very tough.

ORDINANCE 42-92

By Mr. Knarr:

Restricting parking on east side of Ausdale avenue from West Park boulevard to Fourth street.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MANSFIELD, STATE OF OHIO:

Section 1: That no vehicle shall be parked on the east side of Ausdale avenue between West Park boulevard and Fourth street at any hour of the day or night.

Section 2: That the Director of Public Safety is authorized and directed to have made and erected suitable signs or markings to indicate parking restrictions herein.

Section 3: That any person guilty of violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon the conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars ($25.00).

Section 4: That this ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure for the immediate preservation of public safety of said city and its inhabitants because of the pressing traffic condition at the High School Building, and shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage.

Passed: May 5, 1942.

"The Authority on Authorities"

KEEP YOUR ONLY ENTRY

IF YOUR partner has fortunately led your only long suit against the opponents' No Trump game and your hand contains no high cards except the ace of that suit, you will find that it generally pays to withhold it from the first trick, and then come in later. It may even be well to let two or even three tricks in the suit go by before playing your single entry, thereby enabling you finally to take one or more decisive tricks with a small card or cards.

One duplicate declarer got just enough help on this deal to make his contract, when East's lead of the diamond Q was overtaken by West's A. North won the return and immediately knocked out the spade A. East was able to cash the diamond J, 10, 9, but could not put West in the lead again, so declarer finished up the deal, making his contract with his one trick in diamonds, three in spades, two in hearts and three in clubs when the finesse was guessed correctly.

Another declarer was set because West let the diamond Q lose to the K, playing his 5 on it. When North later lost a trick to the spade A, West let the diamond 9 and J go through, finally taking his A on the 10 and cashing the 7 for the setting trick.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, May 9.

A very lively and enterprising day, with all affairs moving at high tempo. New ventures and ambitious projects may move in exciting grooves, with promise of decisive and aggressive action and gratifying achievement, providing every precaution be taken against fraud, misrepresetation and controversy. This particularly applies where writings, documents or agreements are involved. Also there may be danger in travel, in dealing with agencies and communications. Keep down nervous tension, and reckless excitement. There may be much activity and pleasure in public, social, domestic or affectional contacts.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate an extremely lively and strenuous year, with all faculties and forces moving under high pressure. This applies to successful launching of new projects of major importance, providing there be due precaution against fraud, trickery, misrepresentation and there is careful handling of papers, writings and agreements. Travel and change are also hazardous unless nervous tension and hasty actions be restrained.

A child born on this day should have much talent, initiative and energy bespeaking some major success, although it may be nervous, high-strung and impetuous. However, it may have a happy and amiable private life.

LEGAL NOTICE

Carl Warner, last known place of residence and mailing address, 3208 West Street, Oakland, California, will take notice that Coral Warner has filed her petition in The Court of Common Pleas of Richland County, Ohio, praying for divorce and other proper relief on the grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty and that said cause will be for hearing in said court on or any time after June 19, 1942.

RESOLUTION NO. 42-76

By Mr. Mihalick:

Declaring it necessary to improve Lida Street from Raymond Avenue to Longview Avenue by grading the street to the established grade and gravelling the roadway with some suitable material constructing the necessary curbing, gutters and storm drainage etc.

Be it Resolved by the Council of the City of Mansfield, State of Ohio, three-fourths of all Members elected thereto concurring:

SEC. 1.—That it is necessary to improve Lida Street from Raymond Avenue to Longview Avenue by grading the street to the established grade and gravelling the roadway with some suitable material, constructing the necessary curbing, gutters and storm drainage etc.

SEC. 2.—That the grade of said street as improved shall be the established grade; and that the grade of the curbs shall be as established.

SEC. 3.—That the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles of the proposed improvement heretofore prepared by the City Civil Engineer and now on file in the office of the Department of Public Service, be and the same are hereby approved.

SEC. 4.—That the whole cost of said improvement, less the cost of intersections and one-fiftieth of the total cost shall be assessed by the foot front upon the following described lots and lands, to-wit: all lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement which said lots and lands are hereby determined to be specifically benefitted by said improvement; and the cost of said improvement shall include the expense of printing, publishing and serving the necessary legal notices, the printing and publishing of the necessary resolutions and ordinances, the cost of construction and inspection together with interest on bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred assessments, and all other necessary expenditures.

SEC. 5.—That the assessments so to be levied shall be paid in three annual installments, with interest on deferred payments at the same rate as borne by the bonds to be issued therefore; provided that the owner of any property assessed may, at his option, pay such assessment in cash within thirty days from and after the passage of the assessing ordinance in which case said cash assessment shall not include any item of interest upon bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred installments of assessments.

SEC. 6.—That bonds of the City of Mansfield shall be issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments by installments and in an amount equal thereto.

SEC. 7.—That the remainder of the entire cost of said improvement, not specially assessed, including the cost of intersections, together with the cost of any real estate or interest therein, purchased or appropriated, and the cost and expense of any appropriation proceeding therefor, and the damages awarded any owner of adjoining or abutting lands and interest thereon, and the cost and expense of such award shall be paid by the City of Mansfield, Ohio, in the manner provided by law.

SEC. 8.—This resolution shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed May 5, 1942.
Attest: R. R. BLACK, Clerk of Council.

SHOWS WHAT TO DO IN AIR RAID

New Film Portrays How British Cope With Situation.

Do you know what to do in an air raid?

The new March of Time subject opening Saturday at the Ohio theater shows how the 40,000,000 people of England have been coping with the situation for several years.

Entitled, "When Air Raids Strike," the 20-minute subject instructs its audience on how to protect life and property during bombing attacks.

Grattan Johnston, Ohio manager, has invited Police Chief Thomas Bell to view the picture that describes many safeguards that may be adopted during air raids.

Murder On the Avenue

By Carolyn Wells

(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER IV

Downstairs, the party was going on as gaily as when it first started. Doris Day had suddenly become frightened at the lateness of the hour. "I'm going home," she declared. "You going to take care of me, Ogden?"

"Of course. Run up and get your wraps and I'll be ready."

"I suppose I must go, too," Nadine said, regretfully. "That's the worst of parties; they're over so soon."

"There's always another ahead," Murray comforted her, and then from somewhere upstairs came the sound of a loud agonized scream, a woman's scream.

Nadine exclaimed: "That was Doris! What can be the matter with her?"

Doris came uncertainly down the marble stairs. Her fright and terror overcame her, and she pitched headlong into Murray's arms.

"Putting on an act," said Nadine, as they laid the girl on a couch and gave her a drink.

"It's Alma!" Doris moaned. "She's asleep and she won't wake up!"

"She will, now you've left her," Murray declared. "She was bored with your conversation."

"Don't, Ogden," Nadine begged him. "Something has happened. I'm going up to see."

She started up the stairs. Murray followed her.

The door of the coat room was open, as Doris had left it, and Nadine drew back as Murray stepped in. After a moment he beckoned her to him. Alma lay on a chaise lounge. Her eyes were closed; her head rested on a lingerie down pillow. A large pillow lay on the floor beside the couch, and automatically Nadine picked this up and tossed it on the bed, which still held a row of men's overcoats; neatly placed there by Dickson, Hugh's man.

'She's dead," Murray whispered. Nadine was too startled to scream, but she looked at Alma more closely.

"She has bitten her lip," she said. "See?"

"Or somebody kissed her too hard."

"Oh, don't be flippant, Ogden. What shall we do?"

"Get Doctor Lloyd up here. Where's Dickson?"

The valet was at the door, and Murray told him to ask Doctor Lloyd to come, but to give no reason for the message.

Lloyd came, looked at Alma, felt her pulse and her heart, and said, gravely:

"Yes, she is dead."

Dr. Lloyd sent Nadine and Murray out of the room, and told Dickson to get Mr. McCleod who was in his father's apartment.

"Don't tell him anything," he directed Dickson, "and don't let Miss Emmy or her father know there is anything wrong."

Dickson went and Lloyd stood looking at the beautiful face of the woman who had been his patient. Her maladies had been largely imaginary. But Alma had thought it added to her importance to have a medical attendant, and, too, she liked Arthur Lloyd.

What had caused her death? She had often feared or pretended that her heart was weak, but the doctor knew better. This was no heart attack. And there was no wound, no convulsive effect, nothing peculiar about her appearance, unless—

Hugh came in, saw Alma lying on the chaise lounge and went toward her. "What's the matter? Is Alma ill?"

The doctor grasped him by the arm, and said, "Your wife is dead."

Experience had taught him the value of straightforward talk.

Hugh stared at him. "She doesn't look so," he said, going closer. "But—what is it, Lloyd? What does it mean?"

Hugh trembled, as understanding came to him. Then he fell on his knees beside the couch.

"My darling," he whispered, "my little Alma." He took her hand and kissed it gently; then he rose.

"My own feelings must wait," he said, quite evidently forcing himself to be calm. "Was it her heart, Lloyd? She has told me she had heart trouble, but I thought she imagined it."

"She did," the doctor declared. "And in any case that did not cause her death. McCleod, it was not a natural death."

"What?" Hugh braced himself as for a blow. "What do you mean?"

"I know your wife's physical condition and I know there was no hint of trouble of any sort that could have brought this about. I know she was killed. Do you understand? Murdered!"

* * *

Lloyd spoke bluntly, for Hugh was staring at him as though devoid of comprehension.

Then he squared his broad shoulders.

"I must carry on!" he said. "Tell me what to do."

"Take a drink first; you need it." Lloyd pointed to a decanter on a side table. "Now, this must be reported at once. Or do you want to call Doctor Larkin?"

"No. What for? He is my father's physician, but you are Alma's. It is your case. But do you mean reported to—to—"

"Yes, to the police. Shall I call headquarters?"

"Y—yes; I suppose so. Poor little Alma."

"Now, you stay here. Dickson will keep people out and I will go and telephone."

"There's one in the little writing room across the hall, go there."

Lloyd knew the room, it was Alma's writing room and all the appointments betokened her love of the beautiful and her good taste. The thought passed through his mind that the open desk might offer access to secrets, but he could not do anything about that.

He called headquarters; then he went back to Hugh.

"They'll respond quickly," he said. "I think best—don't you?—not to tell your father or sister of this tonight. Excitement would be bad for the old man. And Miss Emmy would have a bad night. Can't you keep it from them until tomorrow?"

"Yes, a good idea. You are a friend, Lloyd. I have self-control and will power, I'll go through with it. Will they question everybody?"

"More or less. But that needn't bother you. When they ask you anything, tell the truth and say as little as possible. You know nothing of Alma's death—do you?"

"No. But if they discover who did that awful thing—Will the police come in here? Shall I stay here?"

"Yes, they'll talk to you first. They're good fellows; meet them fairly, as man to man."

"Oh, I'm not afraid of them, but I can't—Why would anyone harm Alma? . . . Will they take her away tonight?"

"Yes. But you can see her again tomorrow."

McCleod nodded, and turned again to gaze at the still figure on the couch.

Then Foo Chow appeared. "Mr. Raynor," he said, and turned away.

"I'm Captain Raynor, from the Homicide bureau," said a tall, active-looking man. "You are Mr. McCleod?"

"Yes," Hugh said. "Can I do anything for you?"

"I'll just look around a bit. Doctor Colville, the medical examiner, will be here shortly."

Raynor stood a moment, looking at Alma and then asked a few questions of Dr. Lloyd? But he soon learned that his information or advice must come from McCleod.

"Nothing has been touched in this room, I take it?" he asked.

"That's hard to say," Hugh told him. "This is a guest bedroom, but for convenience it was used tonight as a men's coat room. We had a party, but some have already gone home."

"Since Mrs. McCleod was discovered here?"

"That I don't know. My valet may tell you."

"Who first found her?"

"One of the guests, I think. Who was it, Lloyd?"

"Doris Day. Then Miss Glenn and Mr. Murray came up here. Do you want to see them now?"

"Not just now. Better wait for Colville."

Then Doctor Colville arrived. A smallish, dapper man.

"Oh!" he said, in a voice of real pain as he looked at Alma's lovely face.

He examined the cut on her full lower lip, touched it lightly with the finger, and looked at Raynor.

* * *

The detective picked up the large down pillow. It was square, with a cover of filet lace and embroidery, and a lace frill around it. Holding it out to the examiner, Raynor turned it over, and showed the other side, covered with plain linen. In the middle of this they saw a red mark, sufficiently shaped to show the impress of two red lips which had stained the white linen.

Closer examination showed some red spots of a different shade, and Colville's glittering eyes read the story.

"Mrs. McCleod was smothered," he stated. "I gathered that from the signs on her face, and this is proof. Some strong hands held this pillow over her face so tightly and so long that she ceased to breathe, probably without a struggle.

"This stain on the pillow is where Mrs. McCleod bit at it in her frenzy. You see the linen is torn a little, or where the murderer dealt a blow or pressure. Her struggle was not a long one, nor did she suffer after the first few seconds. But it was a brute's deed!"

Hugh McCleod stared at the speaker.

"And the brute must have due punishment," he said, in a cold tone that promised vengeance. "Will you help me find him?"

The last was addressed to Raynor, who nodded his head with emphasis.

Colville looked around the room. "Better have these coats and hats put in some other room. This room must be locked up."

"Must have the place photographed first," Raynor said, and opened the door as he heard men in the hall just outside.

The camera men and the fingerprint men came in. Dr. Colville took Hugh by the arm, and led him away.

"Where can we go for a few minutes' talk?" he asked.

"Come in here," Hugh led the way to the writing room.

"Tell me," Colville said, "have you any idea who could have killed your wife?"

"Not the slightest. Are you sure she was killed? She often spoke of heart trouble. "Was she strangled?"

"She was smothered. Not strangled, but asphyxiated. Some one did it with brute force, by reason of a sudden spasm of rage or maybe by premeditation. She had no enemy?"

"No! Everybody loved Alma. She had hosts of friends, but she never made an enemy."

"Lovers, then? Were men devoted to her?"

"Yes, of course. But she only laughed at them. She told me all about the things they would say to her. She liked to be admired, but it meant nothing to her—nothing serious."

"It was serious to someone. Your servants are of good character?"

'Sport Podge' by REX HESS

"What's the idea," says Harold Aston, "putting it in the paper that you might have to turn the Provident Loan girls' softball team loose on the Ferguson State Auditors?

"There are still some of us guys around here who can give the Auditors all they want.

"Yes, and I can still catch the best softball pitcher in Mansfield. We can get in there and go, yet. Just let us at those Auditors."

* * *

Thus spoke Mr. Aston on the subject, and I am not one to doubt his statements in the least.

Even though, at the time of these remarks, Mr. Aston had just consumed a double steak dinner at the Transportation bowling league banquet at the Sons of Herman.

And such a vast rotundity of waist the lad was wearing. I doubt if he could have bent over to pick up a ball. But that, I assume, was the result of the banquet.

This I will tell Mr. Aston in all seriousness. Banquets at the Sons of Herman are not guaranteed to put you in shape for softball. So much they feed you, you'll have no breath nor energy left for anything more strenuous than conversation.

* * *

I understand from Johnny Villella that Aston and several others of the old Sons of Herman team who are "still able to get out and go," are being lined up for the all-star team which will meet the Auditors at Liberty park on Sunday, May 24.

The team starts regular practice drills on the Liberty diamond Monday at 6 p. m., and all players interested should report at that time.

Every dime over the guarantee to the Auditors, taken in the collection, will go toward some war fund, probably smokes for soldiers, Villella reports.

"And if this game proves successful, we'll put on other games this summer for the same cause," Johnny promises. "Who knows, I may be going in that army before long, and I'll need a few smokes myself."

Smokes for soldiers? Fitting and proper, I'd say. Seems the Mansfield softball veterans have been burning up ever since the Auditors beat the Safety Cabs in the finals of the state tournament three years ago. And when we burn, there must be smoke.

* * *

There's one veteran who won't be around to gain revenge against the Auditors. That's Tommy Moxley, speedy center fielder with the rifle arm and booming bat.

Tom, so I'm informed, has enlisted in the army and is due for induction a week from tomorrow.

"What the—," says Tom, "that draft's bound to catch me some time this summer. Might as well go now as later."

* * *

And that best pitcher in Mansfield that Aston was talking about won't be around for practice sessions with the stars.

That's Aid Geiger, the one-time Newark curve-baller of the hard ball diamond. His working hours won't permit 6 o'clock practice.

But I've never known Aid to need any practice. Just give him a ball and a hill to throw it from, and he's ready for the season.

Golf Tournament Not Cancelled

CHICAGO — (INS) — Far from being in danger of cancellation, the Hale American National Open Golf tournament will attract in the neighborhood of 50,000 fans during the four days of its progress at the Ridgemoor Country club in Chicago.

This was the prediction today of Thomas G. McMahon, president of the Chicago District Golf association. McMahon appeared in a slight huff at the statement of Ed Dudley, president of the Professional Golfers' association, that the entry list was far below expectations and that "if we don't get the proper response, it looks like the tourney will have to be cancelled."

McMahon's comment on this was:

* * *

"I can't understand Dudley's negative attitude. After all, 1,168 entrants with some days to go before entries are closed at the U.S.G.A. office in New York, May 13, seems to me to indicate quite a bit of interest."

The tournament is scheduled for June 18 to 21, inclusive.

Baseball Helps War Relief

First Game Scheduled Today By Dodgers.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

BASEBALL will go to bat for war relief today with the first of 16 regularly scheduled major league games from which Army and Navy assistance funds will get all proceeds.

* * *

Appropriately this affair will be staged by the Brooklyn Dodgers, whose president, L. S. (Larry) MacPhail first campaigned for such a program, and will be unique in that it will be a twilight game and that all persons who enter Ebbets Field, including the players and umpires, will buy tickets.

Even the peanut and hotdog vendors must buy tickets. Ducats for soldiers and sailors will be bought by various organizations.

Brooklyn's foe for this dramatic encounter, starting at 4:45 p. m. (EWT) will be the New York Giants. Later the same teams will play a companion piece at the Polo grounds. The series was planned by MacPhail and President Horace Stoneham of the Giants last month and became the basis for the program evolved by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis for all other major league clubs.

The present installment in the National League's hottest rivalry comes during a sort of intermission in the intersectional skirmishing of both leagues.

The first siege between the eastern and western clubs came to an end yesterday with inclement weather erasing all games except a doubleheader between the Giants and the Pittsburgh Pirates. After some intramural battling during the week-end, the eastern clubs of the American league will move into the west next week and the western clubs of the senior circuit will attempt a raid on the east

In the only action yesterday the Pirates captured a 2-1 11-inning decision in the first half of the bargain bill at Pittsburgh and the Giants came back to bag the nightcap, 6-2.

A checkup on the first intersectional strife shows that the eastern clubs in the American League won 22 and lost only 16 while in the National League the western clubs earned a 19 to 17 advantage.

The best record in either league during this time was made by the Boston Red Sox, who won seven out of nine. The worst mark, of course, belongs to the Chicago White Sox, who dropped nine out of ten.

Blues Threaten Brewers' Lead

Can Take First With Double-Header Win.

(By Associated Press)

Those bustling Blues of Kansas City, who thrive on one-point decisions, can cancel Milwaukee's 11-day stand on the top roost of the American association by taking a double-header from Louisville tonight.

The Brewers have a single game scheduled with Indianapolis, and should they lose, Kansas City would need only to split with the Colonels to move into the lead.

The Blues spirited away a 2-1 win from Louisville yesterday as Ziggy Sears clubbed a timely homer in the second and Pitcher Johnny Johnson worked a three-hit chore.

Indianapolis' game at Milwaukee was postponed.

The Columbus Red Birds, whose wings have been clipped all season defeated St Paul 4-1 for their second in a row. It let them out of the cellar, and put the Saints in.

Toledo blew a five-run lead but recuperated in time to whisk away a 9-6 verdict from Minneapolis

NIBLICK SWINGERS DOING THEIR BIT

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Golf now has an "honor roll" of 527 clubs, public sources and associations which have planned 2,964 tournaments for the benefit of the Red Cross with 44 states and the District of Columbia represented, Joe Dey, executive secretary of the United Golf association, announced today.

The course for May 25th local rounds of the Hale American at Akron, O., was designated as the Congress Lake club and the course for similar rounds at Dayton, O., will be the Miami Valley club.

Moose Close Fork League

Soldier Henry Michaels Rolls High Average.

The bowling league banquet season closed last night with a fine home-style chicken dinner for Moose league keglers at the lodge home. A few post-season "games" for various teams remain on the schedule, but the leagues have completed their business for the season.

Charles Altman was re-elected president of the Moose league for the coming year, Brig Young was named vice-president, and "Willie" Hipp was elected secretary-treasurer.

Prize money was distributed with the championship Fellowship team taking top money of $70, and the 12th place club dragging $41.

High individual average for the year went to one of Mansfield's veteran top bowlers, now a soldier in Uncle Sam's army—Henry Michaels. "Mike" had a mark of 197 for 93 games, one pin better than Art Hilborn's 196 for 96 games.

I., high school girl, won the 100-yard free style event and Miss Callen broke the 400-yard backstroke record.

Domingo Rules As Dark Horse

'Lease-Lend' Colt Owns Plenty of Speed.

By MASON BRUNSON

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Meet the "lease-lend" colt Domingo, dark horse of the Preakness field.

English bred, America-backed Domingo is the hope of Movieman Louis B. Mayer in tomorrow's 52nd running of Maryland's richest race, to be run for a winner's purse of $60,000 or more before an expected crowd of 50,000

As the names of ten probable Preakness starters were dropped into the entry box at Pimlico this morning, Domingo was taking it easy with typical British nonchalance, touched off by bit of Hollywood showmanship.

* * *

He's a playful fellow, this Domingo, a handsomely built bay colt which didn't come to the races until a few weeks ago and was a maiden until last Monday.

One of his favorite tricks is to nibble a broom stick. His bosom pal is a Boxer pup, the stable's watch dog.

Domingo has personality, but—Can he run?

Listen to William B. Finnegan, who's in charge of Mayer's turf interests:

"Not a horse in America can beat him at six furlongs when he's sharpened for speed."

Then he qualified:

"He's still a green colt and has a lot to learn but we believe he's got it in him and is entitled to run with the best."

* * *

Domingo hasn't yet met any horses of the class of Shut Out, Devil Diver, Alsab, Valdina Orphan, Sun Again and others he'll be up against in the Preakness but experts say his breeding is proof he'll stick it out.

The husky bay colt, which looks a lot like Alfred Vanderbilt's Impound, is a three-year-old son of Colombo and Oronsay by Sansovino.

WIN TROPHY

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The president's trophy, awarded annually to the American Association team which draws the largest opening day attendance in proportion to population, today was presented by Prexy George M Trautman to Indianapolis, which drew 11,546 fans, or 2.98 per cent of the Hoosier city's 386,972 population.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Most of the American league managers are high on the Tigers and their up-and-coming young pitchers, but Del Baker only growls "look at the standings" . . . Come to think of it, the Cards had some right good rookie flingers last season and they couldn't win the pennant. . . . Instead of breaking up the Yankees, Gerry Priddy would like to break into the Yankees. He was doing all right at third base until Joe Gordon was hurt and Gerry had to move over to second for a while. Now Gerry can't get Frank Crosetti off the corner. . . . Every time Andy Schuttinger, the hoss trainer, saddles a winner, he donates $100 to the army and navy relief funds. . . . Just to make sure Walter Hagen won't be late for his 2:30 date to give a golf exhibition in Detroit Sunday, Joe Belfore, the club pro, has invited him to lunch—at 1 p. m.

Tribe Hurlers Welcome Rest

Open 17-Day Home Stand of 20 Games.

CLEVELAND -- (AP) — Indian pitchers were mighty glad to get a second day of rest today when they arrived home, for this week-end the Tribe begins a gruelling 17-day home stand of 20 games.

Yesterday's contest with the Yankees was postponed because of weather conditions, and today was an open date for the Tribe. After tomorrow's battle in Detroit, the Redskins return here for a double-header with the Tigers on Sunday.

Pitching showed up as a Tribal weakness during the eastern tour. Jim Bagby, Vernon Kennedy, Mel Harder and Al Smith are expected to carry their share of pitching chores, but Smith and Harder need more than three days' rest between assignments. And with double-headers on three successive Sundays, Manager Lou Boudreau needs another pair of regular starters.

Although Lefty Al Milnar has been ineffective thus far, he probably will get several starting chances. Chubby Dean, Tom Ferrick and Joe Heving also are likely starters as the schedule of Boudreau's slinging staff becomes more and more disrupted.

Bowman Heads Empire League

Harry Bowman is the new president of the Empire Steel Bowling league, elected at the annual banquet Wednesday night at Martin's Tavern.

John Sylvis is secretary and Joe Szirakt treasurer.

Empire bowlers discussed plans for expanding the league next season, and joining the city bowling association as a sanctioned organization.

REDLEGS TANGLE WITH CARDINALS

CINCINNATI—(AP)—One thing and another permitting, the Cincinnati Reds engage the St. Louis Cardinals today in an effort at least to keep from piling up doubleheaders. It's the first of a four-game series.

Either Johnny Vander Meer or Elmer Riddle is the Cincinnati pitcher, against Lon Warneke, veteran right-hander.

REDS SELL WHITEY MOORE TO CARDINALS

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—The Cardinals had a new pitcher today but lost an outfielder as the result of deals announced last night.

Branch Rickey, vice president, said the club had bought Lloyd (Whitey) Moore, right handed pitcher, outright from the Cincinnati Reds, and optioned outfielder Ervin Dusak, 21-year-old Chicagoan, to Rochester of the International league.

Leo the Lip Closes It Up

Won't Talk Now on Retirement Subject.

By TOMMY DEVINE

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—On the verge of retirement as a big league player, "Lippy Leo" Durocher of Brooklyn's National league champions retains the unpredictable character of a typical Dodger hired-hand.

Durocher has been pestering Dodger President Larry MacPhail for three seasons for permission to quit as a player and become a bench manager. Today as he appeared about to achieve that goal, "The Lip" suddenly turned coy and didn't care to talk about his retirement from the playing field.

Reports Durocher intended to abandon his duties as an infielder after 14 years in the majors have circulated for some time. They were given their first definite confirmation yesterday when the office of Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis issued a bulletin which revealed "Lippy" had signed an exclusive managerial contract.

* * *

The Dodger boss, in a surly mood after two days enforced idleness for his club, at first tried to shake-off questions concerning his probable retirement with "no comment" replies to every query. Then, when told such action was broadly hinted in an official release from Landis office, he appeared taken aback.

"Landis' office said that?" he asked. "Oh no! It wouldn't."

Given a chance to read the Landis bulletin and see for himself, "Loveable Leo" became a bit more willing to discuss the case.

"I don't have to have a player contract," he said. "I haven't played a game yet, have I? Go look at the rule book and read what it says. I don't have to declare my intentions yet. What's the day? Only May 7 and we don't have to get under the player limit for another week. Wait until then and I may have something to say about this."

Durocher would have passed from the role of an active player before the start of the 1940 season if MacPhail would have permitted. However, MacPhail wasn't completely convinced "Pee Wee" Reese could handle the shortstopping duties then and he virtually forced Leo to get into playing condition. The Wisdom of MacPhail's plan was proved when Reese suffered a heel injury and Durocher played in 68 games. Last year the Dodger boss played in only 18 contests.

If Durocher's retirement takes place—and it is a safe bet he would have made a vehement denial if the report wasn't true it will make the passing of one of the best defensive shortstops in modern diamond history.

* * *

During his long career with the New York Yankees, the Cincinnati Reds, the St. Louis Cardinals and the Dodgers, Durocher established himself as one of the game's greatest fielders, although he always was a weak hitter.

HURLER SOLD

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The Columbus Red Birds of the American Association today announced the sale to the Rochester club of the International league of Pitcher Lloyd Hopkins. While with the Springfield, Mo., and Decatur, Ill., clubs, Hopkins last year won 23 games while losing six. He is a native of Mulberry Grove, Ill.

Conn Reveals Battle Date

Picks Training Camp For Bout With Louis.

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK—(INS)—Billy Conn is quoted as saying that his return bout with Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship is virtually all set for June 24 at Yankee Stadium. The challenger even has picked his training camp.

* * *

I'm the last guy in the world to butt in on somebody else's business and suggest that he doesn't know what he is talking about when he tells you that he is promised work at such and such a place at a given time, and I'm sure Conn ought to know more about his own business than I do.

However, before he begins shadow boxing and practicing the leers he will use against Louis in this return bout, I would like to say that he may be wrong. Perhaps he hasn't got a fight. What's more it is barely possible that neither he nor Louis will have another fight before they get out of the army unless they get it against the Japs or Germans.

From what may be termed a reliable source I am led to believe upon checking up on Conn's certainty that he is about to meet Louis again that the war department is on the verge of deciding that inasmuch as we are in a war it ill behooves any of us to be running off on furloughs to box somebody or compete in some other event even though it contribute to the Army or Navy charity funds.

The war department, in other words, is deciding that Pvt. Louis and Pvt. Conn and other privates of the United States army should be practicing warfare in times like these and they may never again be permitted to get away for two or three weeks to train for what amounts to a private enterprise.

The Louis-Conn return match was to be a promotion in which some service relief fund would share but not to the extent of taking all the proceeds as was the case in Louis' other recent fights.

This isn't to say that the Louis-Conn encounter is off, for the war department ain't telling right now, but it is just about as near off as it is on, according to a gentleman who positively should know, inasmuch as he would have something to do with the promotion.

Conn may have jumped the gun in revealing to intimates that he is all set to begin preparations for a June date with Louis, or he may know exactly what he is talking about. I wouldn't know for sure, but if I were a book-maker I'd wager that he and Louis won't meet in June.

Navy Musical.

"The Fleet's In," Dorothy Lamour's new musical bombshell opens Saturday at the Ohio. Starring Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra the production also features William Holden, Eddie Bracken and a roster of entertainers that looks like a U. S. O. line-up for a show in camp. The sarong girl plays a sailor-proof entertainer in a ballroom frequented by navy men and the story deals with her romance with a shy young gob. William Holden plays the gob and Eddie Bracken has the role of his bantering pal.

Horror Bill.

A double horror bill topped by "The Ghost of Frankenstein," begins Saturday at the Madison. "The Strange Case of Doctor Rx," is the co-thriller. Lon Chaney, jr., plays the monster in the Frankenstein story that continues from the point where the "Son of Frankenstein" ended. Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Lionel Atwill, Evelyn Ankers and Bela Lugosi are in the cast. Atwill also heads the cast in the second picture that deals with a shadowy avenger who strangles men previously acquitted by the court. Mona Barrie is among the players.

Gangster Story.

"Riot Squad," the one-day attraction Saturday at the Ritz, features Richard Cromwell as a young doctor who is pressed into service as the official physician for a mob of gangsters. When it appears he has actually become a member of the gang things begin to happen. Rita Quigley, Herbert Rawlinson and John Miljan are other players. "Tonto Basin Outlaws," saga of Rangebuster courage in the cattle country," is the second feature.

Kyser Comedy.

The hilarious story of a publicity trick that has unexpected consequences is unfolded in "Playmates," the John Barrymore-Kay Kyser co-starring feature opening Saturday at the Park. Kyser portrays himself, a popular band leader, while Barrymore plays a Shakespearean actor somewhat on the skids. Patsy Kelly, Lupe Velez and Ginny Simms are in the cast. "Blondie Goes to College," with Penny Singleton, Arthur and Janet Blair is the second attraction.

Taylor Starred.

Robert Taylor and Lana Turner are teamed in "Johnny Eager," a gangster picture showing Saturday and Sunday at the Majestic. John Mack Brown in "Arizona Cycle," is the second attraction.

I—VITAL STATISTICS

1—Death Notices

PUGH

Mrs. Jennie Crosbie of 223 West Third Street died at the Mansfield General Hospital early Thursday morning. Funeral services will be held from the Finefrock Funeral Home Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in charge of Rev. Roscoe L. Foulke assisted by Rev. Herbert S. Garnes. Burial in the Mansfield Mausoleum. (Finefrock Funeral Directors) (L-K)

2—Card of Thanks

WITH sentiments of deep gratitude we wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and sincere appreciation to our many friends, relatives, neighbors, the Renner and Weber Brewing company and employes, for their kind expressions of sympathy and beautiful floral tributes in the loss of our dear wife and mother Catherine Steinkerschner. In particular we wish to thank Msgr. R. C. Goebel for the beautiful service and the Geiger Funeral Home for their courteous and efficient assistance in our bereavement.
JOHN STEINKERSCHNER AND FAMILY. (C-K)

WE WISH to express our sincere thanks to our neighbors and friends during the sudden passing of our father and brother, Harry C. Lewis. We wish especially to thank Rev. O. S. Goerner for his consoling words, those who sent flowers and furnished cars. Mrs. Mable Lewis Carstensen, brothers and sisters. (L-k)

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

PAM—Still Unconscious! By A. W. Brewerton

OF COURSE, THEY COULDN'T HOLD YOU FOR ANYTHING IF CARSON DIES! IT WAS AN ACT OF DEFENSE!
I-I REALLY WAS TRYING TO KNOCK THE GUN FROM HIS HAND--DIDN'T MEAN TO HIT HIM!
5-8
WELL, IT'S A GOOD THING YOU DID! IF YOU HADN'T I WOULD NOW BE DEAD--AND YOU, TOO, PROBABLY! YOU GO ON HOME NOW AND FORGET ABOUT CARSON! HE MOST LIKELY WILL RECOVER.
BUT SENSITIVE PAM COULDN'T FORGET THE TRAGIC OCCURRENCE, AND NEXT MORNING...
HOW IS HE NOW, COLONEL? HAVE--HAVE YOU HEARD?
HE'S STILL LIVING, PAMELA, STILL UNCONSCIOUS, BUT---- ...I TALKED TO DOCTOR TAYLOR AND IT MAY CONSOLE YOU TO KNOW HE THINKS THAT BLOW CARSON GOT WHEN HIS HEAD HIT THE FLOOR PROBABLY CAUSED MOST OF THE TROUBLE.
YES, BUT IT WAS BECAUSE I HIT HIM THAT HE FELL SO HARD! OH--I HOPE HE DOESN'T DIE!

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES ON UPWARD TRAIL

Issues Edge Forward During Early Session; Retail Spending Slackens.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market continued to edge forward in today's dealings.

In a fairly active market gainers of fractions included U. S. Steel, Union Carbide, American Telephone, Du Pont, General Electric, General Motors and Sears Roebuck.

Market analysts studied the Dun & Bradstreet survey disclosing a further slackening of retail spending throughout the country in the current week.

For the nation as a whole, the agency estimated merchandising dollar volume ran less than 5 per cent ahead of the corresponding week a year ago. The flattening out of recent consumer demand was attributed mainly to the effect of impending price ceilings on purchasing psychology.

The federal reserve board placed department store sales for the week ended May 2 at 8 per cent over the 1941 period. In the previous week the year-to-year increase amounted to 13 per cent.

ORDINANCE NO. 42-79

By Mr. Kyle:

Changing the name of Ohio Avenue to Muth Road.

Whereas, Council upon hearing is satisfied that there is good cause for such change of name as prayed for and that it will not be detrimental to the general interest and ought to be made, now therefor,

Be it Ordained by the Council of the City of Mansfield, State of Ohio:

Section 1: That Ohio Avenue be and the same is hereby renamed Muth Road.

Section 2: That this ordinance shall take effect and remain in full force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed May 5, 1942.

Attest: R. R. BLACK, Clerk of Council.

Signed: HOWARD G. MILLER, President of Council.

Approved: W. J. LOCKE, Mayor.

(May 8, 15. NJ '42)

ORDINANCE NO. 42-72

By Mr. Miller:

Repealing Section 48A and amending Section 51 of Ordinance No. 42-55.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MANSFIELD, STATE OF OHIO:

Section 1. That Section 48A of Ordinance 42-55 be and the same is hereby repealed.

Section 2. That Section 51 of Ordinance No. 42-55 be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Section 51: Twenty-two patrolmen, each of whom shall receive a salary of one hundred sixty dollars ($160.00) per month, if and when qualified as first class patrolmen, as herein defined and shall give bond in the sum of one thousand ($1,000.00) dollars. Patrolmen who have been in the service of the City two or more years shall be designated first class patrolmen and shall each receive the salary above specified. Patrolmen, who have been in the service of the City one year or less than two years shall be designated second class patrolmen and shall each receive a salary of one hundred and thirty-five dollars ($135.00) per month during said second year of service.

Patrolmen, who have been in the service of the City for less than one year and all patrolmen hereinafter appointed to such position shall be designated third class patrolmen, during the first year of service to the City and shall each receive a salary of one hundred and twenty ($120.00) dollars per month.

Two of said patrolmen, already set forth, shall compose the special investigations divisions, and when detailed upon special investigations during the present emergency and state of war they shall receive a monthly transportation allowance of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) in addition to their regular salary.

Section 3. That this ordinance shall become effective and remain in full force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed May 5 1942.

Signed. HOWARD G. MILLER, President of Council.

Attest: R. R. BLACK, Clerk of Council.

Approved: W. J. LOCKE, Mayor.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Judge Cramer Ill—Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer was ill at his home today with a severe cold.

Father-Son Banquet — Friendly House will hold its annual Father-Son banquet Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. at the building. Robert Horn will be the speaker.

Stag Party—Amima club members will hold their annual stag party Saturday at the Earl Saltzgaber cottage at Mifflin lake beginning at 3 p. m.

Board Meeting Called — The Mansfield Community Fund executive board will hold its May meeting, Monday at 4 p. m. at the organization headquarters.

Auto Tire Stolen—Miss Norene Boylan, 28 Dunbilt court, reported to police yesterday that an automobile tire and wheel had been stolen from her automobile while it was parked near 131 Snyder street last Saturday.

Rifle Club Shoots—The Mansfield Muzzle-Loader Rifle club will shoot at 1 p. m., tomorrow, at its grounds on U. S. Route 30 South, it was announced today by Arthur T. Owen, secretary-treasurer.

Plan Summer Camp—Mrs. Leland Darling and Mrs. Harley Black of Butler and Miss Elizabeth Bay, county home demonstration agent, met in Bucyrus today with women from four other counties to plan a summer session at Camp Pittenger near Tiffin.

Cited for Contempt—Alex Colangelo, 23, of 35½ East Fourth street, taken into custody last night for allegedly violating a court order enjoining him from molesting his estranged wife, was scheduled to go before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston today.

Approve Transfer — Madison township trustees had been authorized today by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston to transfer $15,000 from the township general fund to the road and bridge fund to finance the construction of a garage to house township road equipment.

Ask Damages — Richard Beal had filed suit in common pleas court today against Elmer Egner, a minor, asking $500 damages for injuries he received in a traffic mishap last Aug. 9 on a county road in Springfield township. Beal contends the defendant failed to observe a stop sign at an intersection. The law firm of Beam and Beam represents the plaintiff.

Arrest Lodi Driver—Clayton M. Zook, Lodi, was arrested last night by Mansfield police on a speeding charge. Zook was charged with driving at more than 50 miles per hour on Ashland road. He posted $16.30 bond and waived appearance in municipal court.

Return Runaways — Mansfield police found two boys, one the son of an Indianapolis, Ind., minister, hitch-hiking on Ashland road near the Hartman filling station. The boys' parents were contacted and they immediately wired police money to pay the bus fare of the boys back to Indianapolis.

Present Motion Picture — The French club of Mansfield Senior high school has made arrangements to show for pupils the French motion picture "Meyerling" at 1:30 p. m., Monday, in the auditorium. Miss Kathleen Mendenhall is faculty advisor of the group.
